Middle School Is Taking Steps to End Extortion and Thievery

"In the noisy school cafeteria, an 8th grade boy asks you for some money. You refuse but he puts a fist up and says, 'I'll beat you up if you don't give me a quarter.' What do you do?"

"You are one of the last to leave the building when the fire alarm rings. On your way outside, you notice Henry, going through Jill's purse, which she left on the desk. Do you tell anyone?"

What do you do?"

"In the lunchroom you see Greg, a big husky 8th grader, come up to Charlie, a 6th grader and take a dime from Charlie's tray. He puts it in his pocket and walks away. What do you do?"

"You are in the library and you see a girl who is very popular and has a good reputation take a record off the shelf, slip it in her notebook and walk away. What do you do?"

Extortion and stealing have been going on at the Middle School (and, in varying degree, at other schools) for a long time.

Thornton Grove, Middle School principal, says it's certainly been true the four years he's been there, and probably for years before that.

Until this year, individual cases were handled separately and secretly. A few were sent to the police.

Last fall, however principal and teachers decided to open up the sore, bring its unpleasantness into the open and see if students wouldn't join in cleaning it up.

Things went slowly at first. The Student Senate of 20 boys and girls, two elected from each of the ten "houses," had other projects to interest them. But after Christmas, Mr. Grove suggested they move in on some school problems and the Senators themselves decided to zero in on stealing and extortion.

This Thursday, the Senate is scheduled to meet and develop final procedures to follow in cleaning up the school. All last week and this, "houses" have been talking it over: students, teachers and administrators, trying to uncover what's been going on and to correct it.

"The teachers and I have been emphasizing to all the students that we all have a responsibility for each other," Mr. Grove says. "We want to place the responsibility on the students: each one of you, we say, has a responsibility to your peers, and what this means is, we can't allow these things to occur."

One "house" in its discussion, prepared the incidents quoted at the beginning of this report. "They were imaginary," Mr. Grove smiles, "but I think the kids had had enough experience so they aren't all that imaginary!"

How much stealing and extortion goes on?

"It's hard to say," Mr. Grove admits. "More happens than I ever hear of, I'm sure." He says he gets about one call a week from parents. Sometimes he's hamstrung because a parent won't give him the name of the child they suspect. Or they say, "Don't talk to my child about this — he was the victim and I don't want any reprisals!"

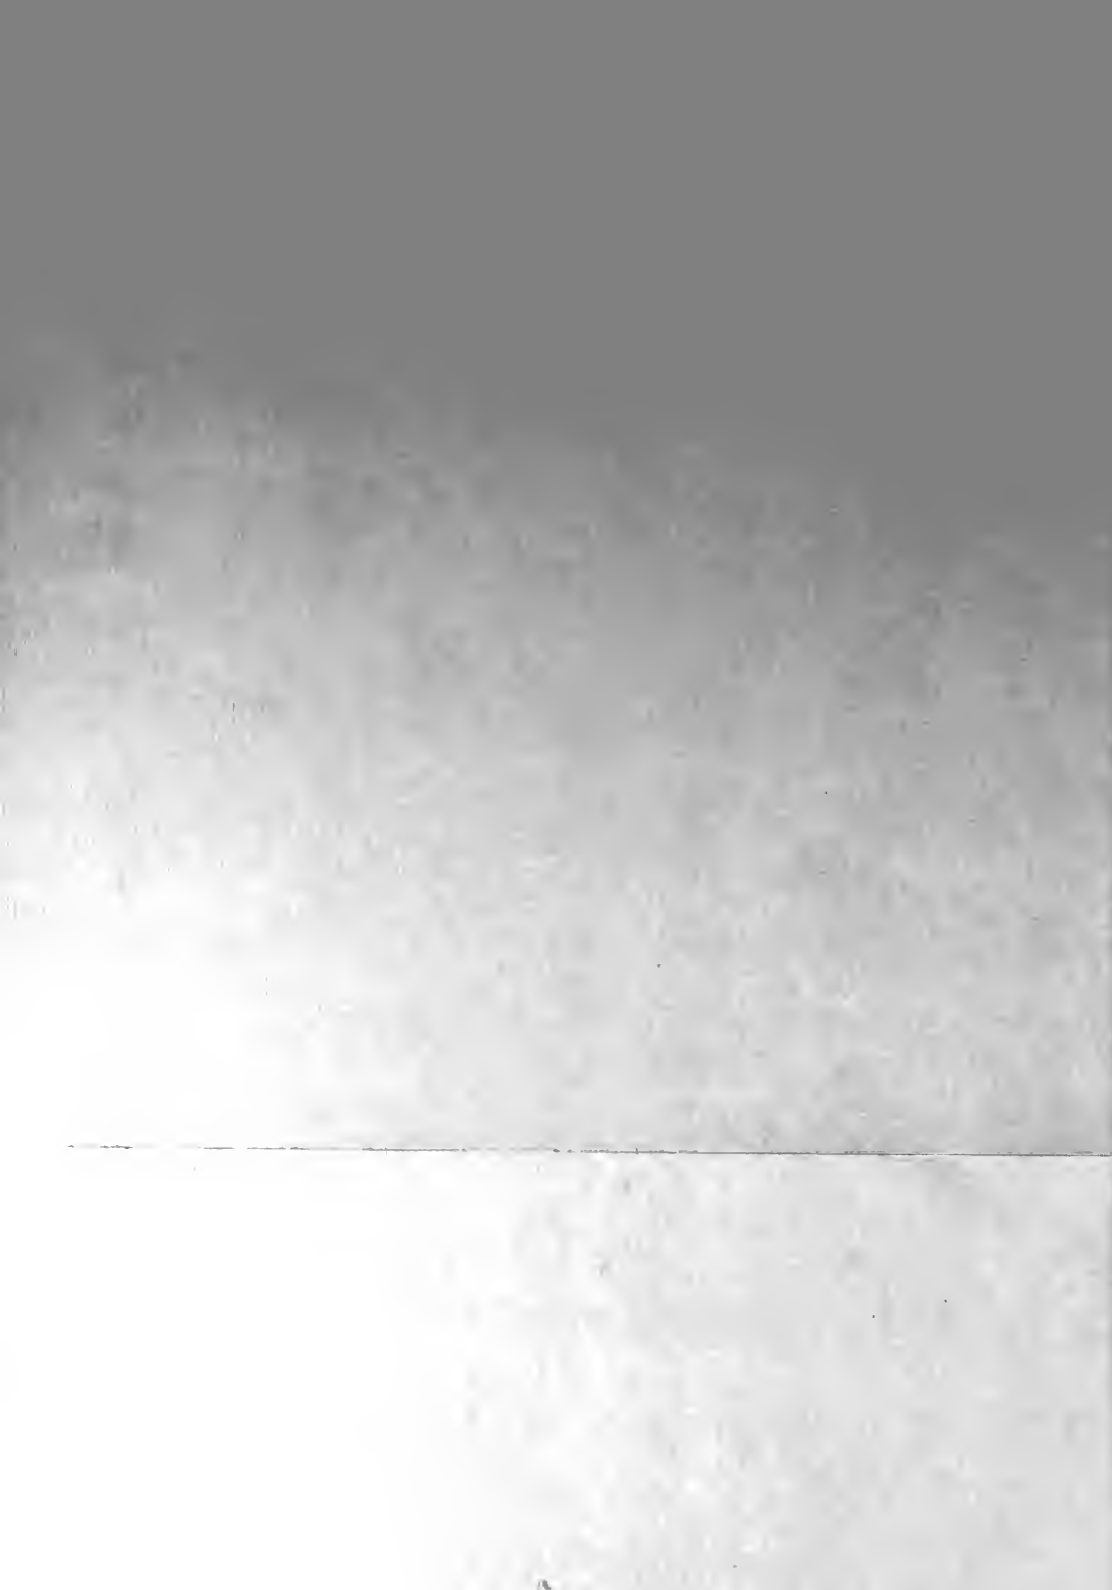

He would like more definite in-

Chess-game Moves to Ease PHS Overcrowding

- Princeton High School's over-crowding will be temporarily relieved through use of the ten rooms in "D" wing of John Witherspoon School.
- The Middle School will not be moved to John Witherspoon for the 1971-72 school year.
- Grades 6-7-8 will be kept together as they are now.
- There are no plans to separate a chunk of the ninth grade permanently from the high school; a mix of students will move back and forth between PHS and JW.
- Activities now in the John Witherspoon "D" wing will be spread around in other schools, chiefly Riverside and Littlebrook. Johnson Park is already full.

These are highlights of the Administration's tentative plan for short-range relief of the PHS situation. In a Friday press conference, Superintendent Philip E. McPherson emphasized the tentative nature of the proposals.

They were discussed by all teachers and staff members of the schools on Monday and have been scheduled for public discussion at two Wednesday Program sessions, February 17 and February 24, both at 1:30 p.m. at the high school.

A final report is expected by about March 1, Dr. McPherson said on Friday.

John Witherspoon School, built by the former Borough School system, was designed to accommodate kindergartens through eighth grade and it will cost very little to convert the "D" wing, according to William Karch, manager of facilities for the schools.

One room is already being used for high school physics classes. ("D" is the wing at the southeast corner of the school the farther of the two south wings from Walnut Lane.)

Two Special Services classes, already attended by children from all over town, will be re-assigned: one to Riverside and one to Littlebrook. The Media Services office will go to Littlebrook.

No regular John Witherspoon classes will be moved to another school. However if teachers and parents agree, the equivalent of two fifth-grade classes might be moved from John Witherspoon to participate in multi-age classes at the Middle School.

FOR PTA SCHOLARSHIPS: A fund drive is under way for money to provide scholarships for Princeton High students who want to go beyond high school. Mrs. John Marks, (center), is chairman of the school's PTA drive, assisted by Mrs. Henry Broad (left) and Mrs. Alexander Hoagland, (seated).

If this plan doesn't work out, pre-kindergartners already at John Witherspoon will be moved to a double-classroom portable unit attached to John Witherspoon. The cost of such a five-year lease, or $12,000 for a three-year lease, of $17,000 for a three-year lease, Dr. McPherson estimates.

The proposed shift will be financed within the existing budget through re-allocation of existing funds, Dr. McPherson said.

son stated. Purchases of such items as tape recorders might be deferred along with some capital expenditures, he said.

Construction of the Johnson Park gym will proceed, however, and the "Babes" will be installed as planned, at the Community Park site.

Space around town may be used, as follows: Westminster Choir College for the music program; the Baptist Church across from the high school on Houghton, for seminars; the former Miss Fine's School gym behind Borough Hall, perhaps for art programs.

Mr. Karch has approached Borough authorities and is scheduled to talk with Township officials, about a trial close-out of both Grant Avenue and Walnut Lane. The municipality, from the old Franklin Avenue, goes down the middle of Walnut; the high school playing fields are in the Borough, John Witherspoon School in the Township.

Although school enrollment will drop, long-range, the high school expects 100 additional students this fall.

A PHS faculty report sent to Principal Florence Burke by the superintendent, makes it clear that the faculty doesn't want to isolate part of the ninth grade in John Witherspoon or anywhere else (this was dis-formation from parents, Mr. Grove says.

A lot of stealing goes on in locker areas. A kid neglects to lock his locker, or he writes "I combination on the door so he won't forget it, or he deliberately leaves the key slightly loose so that a single jerk will open it — easy pickings for somebody working the locker area.

Under a relatively new regulation, plays ed teachers say in locker rooms while students are dressing, and they lock the entire locker room during gym classes. But when only two gym teachers have close to 100 kids in a class and this is the case in the crowded Middle School gym facilities — it's hard to keep track.

"Thievery," Mr. Grove suspects, "may sometimes be forgotten." The principal says four or five ten-gallon cans at Community Park are loaded with clothing left lying around the schools.

Dirty socks, expensive winter jackets — it's a varied bag. At the end of the school year, the cans are dumped in the school halls and kids are told to come and search out their lost clothing.

Extortion occurs most often in the cafeteria where money is out and being spent. Mr. Grove says he's not aware of any gang action, although kids may stand around and watch the extortion move in on his victim.

The new para-professional aides, who monitor the cafeteria, watch closely. One moved in and grabbed a boy recently. "Did Johnny ask you for money?" "Uh... yes, I guess he did, but he's a friend. I gave him money a lot."

Mr. Ayle had seen money chance hands. She suspected extortion. "I didn't know either boy, so I don't know who the extortioner was likely," as Mr. Grove's comment on the incident. Aides, incidentally, are discussing among themselves what to do about extortion.

Mostly, it's boys. Is it really some while parents say it's the black kids, but Mr. Grove doesn't want to say that. Is it the same kids all the time? It's hard to say, the principal concedes, but he's sure that one success breeds another attempt. He has not actually seen any bloody noses or black eyes from the kids that might follow if a kid refused to give up the dime.

The almost invariable reply from a victim is "I gave it to him, he didn't threaten me." When an extorter or thief is caught or suspected, Mr. Grove will call in the parent for a conference. Some mothers will be furious at the child, and they'll say to the principal "I guarantee it will NEVER happen again." One father said he would beat his son.

Other parents are defensive: "You're always picking on my son" or they will say, quite truthfully, that problems at home are so overwhelming they simply cannot cope.

Mr. Grove reports a conference with one boy whom he summoned after a mother had telephoned her complaint. The boy had demanded that another boy bring him candy the following day.

"I tore into that kid," the principal reports, "I told him he had made a threat, and do you know, he seemed shocked. He came back the next day and said he hadn't meant his words to sound like threats."

So far this year, no thievery or extortion has been taken all the way to the Juvenile Court.

What we want to do," the principal explains, "is to bring it all into the open. This way, we hope, to encourage kids to report to the Aides if their lunch is stolen, and we hope to encourage the weak ones who are scared to talk, but might have some ideas about what to do."

cussed at one time.) The faculty doesn't want double sessions or staggered sessions, either.

The faculty proposes establishment of an "open campus" for unassigned student time. Students and staff will work together in planning, but students would decide where to be at an "interest center," the library, a counselor's office, art or home economics rooms, specifically defined "social areas" and so on.

WELLER ACTION TAKEN
Re-zoning Passed. Township Committee on Tuesday night unanimously passed the ordinance re-zoning the Institute for Advanced Study's Weller Tract to the one-acre R-3 residential zone in which cluster zoning is allowed.

The ordinance will take effect July 1. The state is expected to know by then whether it will purchase the Tract.

Tuesday's action, recommended by the Township Planning Board, was brief.

Previous hearings had occupied whole evenings. The only comment from the floor was made by Donald Boyd of the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society who characterized the ordinance as "special interest legislation" and said it would increase the value of the land and therefore the price the state would have to pay.

At the request of Committee-man John D. Waller, the Township will formally ask the Institute whether it's willing to sell the Tract to anyone besides the state. The Township itself doesn't have the funds, but it could accept a donation of the land as open space from private citizens.

Earlier in the week, the Princeton Historical Society declared in a letter to Commissioner Richard J. Sullivan of the state's department of environmental protection, that two points were of prime importance in the Battlefield Weller dispute:

Acquisition of the 20-acre field east of the present Park ought to be "the most important and priority." A compromise under which the Institute has agreed to cluster six houses on four acres closest to Mercer Road with the remaining eight Tract acres deeded as open space, is next in importance.

Opinion Divided. The Society has taken no official position because its board members are not in agreement, the letter says. (Board members include: Mrs. Minot C. Morgan Jr., whose husband is business manager of the Institute, and Bruce French, a trustee of Princeton Friends Meeting, who had worked out one of the many compromise plans with the Institute.)

A copy of the letter to Commissioner Sullivan was sent to William Starr, president of the Battlefield Area Preservation Society.

He protests, in a reply, that the remaining eight Weller acres would not be deeded as open space, but sold to the state by the Institute for a price not yet revealed. He also declares that a road into the development would take up acreage, leaving only six open space acres.

In a lengthy letter, prepared before Committee's decision Tuesday night, historian John Boyd outlines the history of acquiring land for the present Battlefield Park, and dismisses the area involved in the current dispute as "a tract lying on the outer perimeter of the land whereon the engagement took place."

Dr. Boyd cites various compromises agreed to by the Institute and charges its opponents with making an "unreasonable attack" involving "misleading statements, distorted maps and emotional appeals to patriotism."

He has sent his letter to state and local officials and to other organizations which have adopted resolutions favoring incorporation of the Weller land into the Park.

Police Here Seeking Major Pay Increases

At the same time that Trenton police are dramatizing their unmet pay demands with a "blue wall" picket of all major access roads to Trenton, Borough and Township police are quietly pressing their pay demands. But the results are the same: there has been no agreement yet between police here and their respective governing bodies over salaries for 1971.

For the first time, a new element has been introduced here. Patrolmen's Benevolent Local 130, which includes Borough, Township and West Windsor police, has hired a lawyer, Lawrence Stein of Trenton, to represent it in its pay dispute.

In the Borough, police are asking for an $11,000 increase for 1971, says the board. Presently, a patrolman earns $10,400 after four years, the police want that increased to $11,500.

So far there have been two offers from Borough officials and two from Township police. The latest package, on which the police will vote Thursday, includes an 11.5% increase with a maximum of $11,076. This includes a 6.5% pay increase and an additional 5% which the Borough figures is the equivalent of dropping from a 42-hour to a 40-hour week. "But these are the hours they want us to work; it would mean losing our long weekends," said one of the negotiators for the police.

Another Benefit. Also in the Borough's package offer is a guarantee of compensatory time off for duties such as court appearances. If this can't be made up by the end of the year, the patrolman would be paid for his time spent.

Blue collar workers have been working a 40-hour plus week; white collar workers work 35.

Both sides in the Borough emphasize the talks have been amiable. Said one of the police negotiators: "Each side is trying to adjust to what is possible."

How long will the backing-and-forthing continue? Apparently there is no time limit; they can go on indefinitely. Representing Borough police in the pay discussion have been Pil, Bernard Lenhard, president of PBA 130; Detectives Timothy Huizing and Thomas Procaccino and Pil John Markusun.

Township, Too. In the Township there are no benefit issues to muddy the waters. At stake is a pay increase only. The Township police are also asking for an $11,000 pay increase for all grades, bringing a patrolman to $11,500 after four years. Originally, the Township offered $700 with an additional $50 for a medical check and $50 for college credit courses. Now the offer is police have reached an agreement on pay for 1971: a $1,000 increment for each grade which means patrolmen there will receive $11,000 after four years.

The PBA was not involved in the settlement. "Committee asked for certain things and made certain recommendations which they accepted," said Chief Francis J. Maguire.

Chief Maguire is not gloating, however. Far from it. "I'd like to see it level off. I hope this escalation stops," he commented. "I hope in the future all committee would have to consider is a small cost of living increase, but the way inflation is today you have to keep up with it."

He added that committee was caught in the inflation spiral and the realization that police had to be paid more, and unfortunately the two coincided.

West Windsor's pay raise is based on a 40-hour week. If the men work overtime, they receive compensatory time off, Chief Maguire said.

TOPICS Of The Town

a straight $800 increase with no benefits.

Representing Township police have been Patrolmen Anthony Gaylord, David Futs, David Wilbur and Detective Anthony Pinelli. Township also feel that if both sides can't reach an agreement, the dispute will be turned over to a mediator.

DROWNING IN BOTTLES: A stark and graphic reminder of how the world could be drowned in no-return bottles is now on view in the small storehouse garden at the Princeton Public Library. Ralph Rowlands, a student at the Middle School, looks over the landscape.

Princeton Not Alone. Law enforcement police are also engaged in salary discussions. There, police have reportedly turned down the municipality's latest offer of $11,310 for a patrolman after four years.

In Trenton, where the dispute over police and firemen's pay is generating much more heat, police are requesting a $1,600 increase across the board. Trenton mayor Arthur Holland has okayed an increase of $800 per year.

Only one thing seems certain at this point: the days are gone when police will calmly accept whatever increase — if any — town fathers think they deserve.

WILL BUS STOP HERE? Center Service May Resume. Suburban Transit bus service will probably be restored to the Princeton Shopping Center, predicted Township Administrator Joseph K. Nini to committee Tuesday night.

New York buses haven't been operating from the Center since February 5 because the Center's management reportedly demanded of Suburban a $1,000 monthly rental for the park and ride service.

Suburban refused. Mr. Nini reported that the Township first learned of the discontinued service when a bus company representative came to Township Hall to inform police that buses would no longer be operating from the Center.

TO DIE IN FIRE

Near Princeton Junction A 25-year old man and his five year old nephew died Monday in a pre-dawn fire which burned out his home at Clarksville and North Post Roads in West Windsor Township.
The victims were Gerald F.
McIntyre, a member of the Class of 1964 at Princeton High School, and Ronald McIntyre of Hamilton Township, who was spending the night with his aunt Charlotte, 19, and his uncle. Mrs. McIntyre apparently was the first to discover the flames and ran to the home of a neighbor to give the alarm. She suffered minor burns.

A general alarm summoning
the Princeton Junction Fire
Co. was sounded at 4 a.m.
Young Ronald was pronounced dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital at 4:55. Mr. McIntyre, who had vainly sought to escape through a window, died at 8:30.

Patrolmen Bruce Wooters and Guy Watlington of West Windsor Township Police, first to arrive on the scene, tried to break into the burning house but were driven back by the intense heat. Firemen later were able to enter and carried the boy and his uncle out through a first-floor back door window.

Served in Air Force, An Air Force veteran, Mr. McIntyre was employed as a maintenance mechanic at American Standard in Trenton. He was a former resident of Princeton Junction.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his parents, Mr.
and Mrs. Joseph E. McIntyre of Trenton; five brothers, Robert of Trenton, James of Robbinsville, Walter of Oran-do, Fla., Tech. Sgt. Elmer of

The service will be held Thursday at 2 at the Kimble
Funeral Home, the Rev.
James S. Weaver of the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in Dutch Neck Cemetery.

Ronald was the son of George J. McIntyre and Mrs.
Marilyn McIntyre Garbino, both of Hamilton Township. He is also survived by three brothers, a sister, his maternal and paternal grandparents and a great grandfather. A service for him will also be held at the Kimble Funeral Home
Thursday at 2, with burial in Princeton Memorial Park, Robbinsville.

READY FOR THE RACE.
For School Board. Deadline for filing for the March 30 school board election is this Thursday at 4 p.m. By presstime, an expected filing by a black candidate had not yet materialized.

At present, two candidates are competing for the one Borough seat: Mrs. Hannah Fox and Jeremiah Ford III. Four candidates seek the two Township seats: incumbent William Marvel, T. C. Allen, C. George
Fitzgerald and George A. Hill.

All will gather at 8 p.m. this Friday in Community Park School to draw for ballot positions. Candidates who later decide to withdraw, must do so by February 26. Absentee voters must file by Monday, March 22.

In the Township, lines are clearly drawn. CARES, the anti-administration group, has formally endorsed Mr. Marvel and Mr. Hill. The Committee for Princeton Schools, generally regarded as pro-administration, has made no formal statements of support.
CARES has not endorsed either Borough candidate. Mrs.
Fox is regarded as a "Committee" candidate and Mr.
Ford speaks of himself as an independent who is neither pro-nor con the school Administration.

"WHO WILL DECIDE . . . Something At Some Point?"
School Board Member William W. Marvel barreled into the agenda meeting late in the evening on Tuesday, but he asked the crucial question.
The discussion was moving erratically between proposals and alternatives in short and long-range plans for the Princeton Regional School System. On the conference table in the family room at the high school was the 17-page "Progress Report on Staff Planning for the Space for Learning in the Princeton Schools for the 1971-72 School Year," submitted by the superintendent's office.

"What I want to know," Dr. Marvel cut in, "is who is going to decide something at some point? The Board? Administration? Faculty? What? Shall we have a Town Meeting of the Air?"

"There's a time table on this. The short-range questions have to be decided right now," he noted that the final proposals are due by the end of March.

The staff report (see page 1) will be available in a condensed form at Tuesday's meeting of the school board when it will be the major item on the agenda.

Also on the agenda will be a proposal to seek Federal funds in support of a three-year contract of the engineering and secondary education program held here last summer.

KEI-900 TO TOWER: No, this isn't the cockpit of a 747 but the new radio control panel of the Township police department — as advanced over the old one as a 747 is over a Piper Cub. Among its features are two radio broadcast systems, alarm panels, radio monitors of six surrounding police stations, a TV screen which monitors the Township Jail and a 16-line intercom system. Above, Ptl. Joseph Mazonis talks to one of the Township's patrol cars. Said one patrolman: "It still don't know what half the buttons are for." (Staff Photo)

Professor David P. Billington of the engineering faculty at Princeton University.

The program is put forth by the Special Services department, which is also working on a proposal for Title VI money to underwrite staff training and seminar costs for a projected summer camp for Mercer County's handicapped children.

Tuesday's agenda will include matters pertaining to transportation bids in view of long-range planning for busing; leave-of-absence requests; and a discussion of the proposed calendar for the 1971-72 school year.

SHIFT IN STAFF

Of School Administration. Eugene Bringer reportedly will leave the post of Associate Superintendent of the Princeton Regional Schools and become principal of an elementary school, probably John Witherspoon this fall.

Replacing him in the Stony Brook Administration Building would be Wesley Johnson, new principal of John Witherspoon. Mr. Bringer was appointed associate superintendent in June, 1969, succeeding John A. Wolfkell. He was principal of the Middle School and before that, was principal of Community Park.

WOMAN STILL MISSING

From Township. Township police still they have no new information on the whereabouts of Mrs. Laura P. Carpi, 37, of 213 State Road, who has been missing since February 8. "We don't know where she is or why she left," commented Detective Samuel Bianco. She was reported missing last week by her attorney, after she failed to pick up her children from school.

Mrs. Carpi and her husband, Colin, reportedly have separated. They have four children. She was last seen the morning of the 8th outside her home. Police described her as 54, 122, light complexion with long brown hair and brown eyes. Anyone with any information is asked to call Township police.

4 BOYS, GIRL ARRESTED

After Police Stop Car. Four young men and a juvenile girl were arrested by Borough police Friday night after they allegedly used offensive language to a patrolman when he stopped their car on the corner of Wiggins and Vandeventer.

The driver, George E. Tkacs Jr., 19, 252 N. Harrison Street, has been charged by Ptl. Ron Ad Huld with driving while under the influence of drugs; possession of alcoholic beverages; and possession of forged drugs. Police said that he refused to take a Breathalyzer test.

He was released under $250 bail and faces a Borough court bearing March 3. Charged with possession of alcoholic beverages were: Robert Bartolino, 20, 8 Tee-Ar Place; Frank Buccanuso, 20, 32 Oakland Road; and George Fleming, 20, 31 Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction. The girl, a juvenile from West Windsor Township, was released to her parents. She will be charged as a delinquent, police said.

Ptl. Holliday stopped the car at 9:48 p.m. He brought all of the defendants to headquarters after they allegedly became abusive.

YOUTH ON BOARDS

Young Appointees Ready. High school students and Princeton residents who attend the University will be tapped soon for non-voting membership on the Township's various citizen boards.

Mayor James A. Floyd said this week that about 20-25 youngsters have indicated a willingness to serve. The mayor mentioned the Joint Recreation Board and the Board of Trustees of the Public Library as likely spots for the young point of view. If the Board of Health takes on responsibilities in the drug area, young participants might be helpful there, too, he said.

An equal number of Borough young people might be named to such joint groups as the recreation and library boards, he suggested.

HOP A SCHOOL BUS?

Public Use, Maybe. The use of school buses for general transportation inside the Princeton community was suggested this week by Township Mayor James A. Floyd.

Buses make school runs on ly twice a day and are free all summer and during vacations, the mayor pointed out.

A Joint Borough Township Transportation Commission is under legal study, the mayor said, and may be ready to roll by March. He and Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley are drawing up lists of citizens who might serve.

The mayor added that Mercer Metro buses are still a possibility for Princeton use, although he said their Diesel construction might make them unacceptable to Princeton residents.

CHAIRMAN ELECTED

Mrs. Sprout to Head Board. Mrs. Harold Sprout was elected chairman of the Township Board of Health at a re-organization meeting held Thursday. Board meetings, previously held on fourth Thursdays, will now be held on the second Thursday of each month. Meeting time is 8 p.m. and the place is Township Hall.

Mrs. Sprout was chairman of the League of Women Voters Health Committee that is sued a report last year recommending consolidation of Borough and Township health departments.

"Caesar" Is Long on Language And Very Short on Theatre

Theodore H. White is a superb, perceptive political analyst. He is not a playwright. His "Caesar at the Rubicon," which opened in world premiere Friday at McCarter and will play there in repertory this spring, is not a play at all but a political essay spoken by actors. It could as well be read from lectures.

In fact, it probably does read very well indeed. (It was published about three years ago, but McCarter's production is a revised version.) Mr. White is a first-rate writer, excited by the manipulations and misadventures of professional politicians, as readers of his books know to their delight, and he has done an incredible amount of research into Roman history.

But he has allowed his enthusiasm to have their way, so that "Caesar" is much too long. And he has chosen a story which would throw the best playwright in the world you can't see the forest for the tree-spirits.

"Caesar" needs to be over-simplified. The plot should be pruned to the point of defoliation so we can see the bare branches, because these are the branches, because these are the Roman ways of governing and politicking that it's hard to make out just what's at stake. And indeed one character says "It's tricky not at all clear." To provide some clarity, Mr. White makes sure we see the modern relevance of it all: the Roman voters who stay away from the polls on a rainy day, the politician who's a stickler for law and order, Caesar's Spanish general, played by Black actor Fred Mursell, who wants to be the first Spaniard to sit in the Senate.

Occasional Action. Action does intrude now and then. It is, for instance, "Christmas Eve" of 50 B.C. and Caesar

Caesar is encamped on the shores of the Rubicon in Ravenna. Cato and Pompey, his enemies, who want to strip him of power are 180 miles away in Rome. This means that no on-stage confrontation can ever take place. Mr. White has to rely on runners panting back and forth to tell Caesar what it was. This is roughly the Caesarian equivalent of the household who answers the phone as the first act curtain goes up and fills you in on everything that went before.

The Narrator's Turn. Between runners, Caesar and his men talk about what has just been reported, what may be reported next time and what it all means. Mr. White even has Pollio, the narrator, read aloud to Caesar from the writings of Caesara and Plato. They talk about what the writers read. Then Caesar says, go on and read some more.

Pollio is Caesar's Theodore H. White, a scribe who sits in a corner and takes down everything everybody says in order to write "The Making of a Caesar." Pollio launches the play by giving the audience a resume of Roman history, and finishes the play by recounting how each character met his end.

(This means, by the way, that the end of the play is a lot drier than a climax. The line, "We must all die" is thrown away by Pollio after he's given brief obituaries of the characters. We've watched for three hours. It might better have been a climactic curtain call line.)

Another problem posed by Mr. White's fascination with buying Roman votes and manipulating Senators is that, as Ver-gilatoris the Gaul might say, wants to wash the feet of a slave in observance of custom. Ver-gilatoris, defeated chieftain of the Gauls, is dredged up from the dungeon, hands in stocks and wild beard flaring, to serve Caesar's purpose.

He roars out his defiant refusal: in his Druid religion, a slave can never be re-born. And Caesar's gesture will condemn the chief to eternal death. The men wrestle and Caesar finally relents.

But even here, Mr. White can't resist exciting ideas. The two chiefs, before they go for each other's throats, exchange information about Roman gods and Druid tree spirits in a dialogue right out of "The God of Boughs."

In another moment of action, thus one considerably more germane, Caesar's chief of staff Labienus who has served long and loyally, breaks with his chief. It's a human incident, one of the few in the play.

It's mildly theatrical, too, when Caesar makes use of the Gauls' invention of signal flares to alert his legions and inform his allies.

Audience Is Secondary. But most of the excitement is the kind you get from reading Mr. White's "The Making of a President." And you feel throughout the play that the author has really written "Caesar" for himself, not for an audience. He has reported many times his fascination with Caesar and it's obvious that he had a perfectly wonderful time researching Roman history.

"A PASSAGE TO"
E. M. Forster. The English Speaking Union will hold a theatre benefit for its overseas exchange program on Saturday, March 13, at 8:30 p.m. at McCarter Theatre.

Dorothy Wood and her company will present "A Passage to E. M. Forster," a suite to the late British writer by William Roetick and Thomas Coley.

The two adapters have prepared an evening of scenes from Forster's novels, excerpts from his essays and anecdotes about his life. A cast of five, led by Miss Wood and Mr Roetick, will perform.

Tickets at $6 include a $2.50 tax exempt contribution to the English Speaking Union. An after-theatre champagne reception at McCarter will be held for all benefit ticket holders.

Applications accompanied by checks, should be sent by February 26 to the English Speaking Union, c/o Rear Admiral Mitchell Matthews, 6 Mercer Street, Princeton. Telephone inquiries should be made to 924-6913.

Bullies Play Scheduled. Ed Bullins' play in the Wine Time, part of the playwright's 12-play series to be called the Twentieth Century Cycle, will be given next weekend, February 26 and 27, and again March 5-6 at the Princeton Youth Center.

The Center's Hansberry Act Workshop actors will contribute the cast.

In contrast to the most recent Hansberry offering "Simply Heavenly," the Bullies play is a dark drama told in starkly realistic terms with strong language.

NEED TODDLER CARE? Check Pre-School Guide. Believe it or not, there are 30 nursery schools and day care centers in the greater Princeton community.

Two Princeton Junction women found this out to their complete astonishment, and the result is the comprehensive Pre-school Guide, off the presses this week ($1.25). "There's nothing like this available, that is what amazes us!" Mrs. Carol Horowitz and Mrs. Joy Reynolds said last week. "There are a few listed in the League of Women Voters' 'Know Your Town', but our pediatrician says he gets about 15 inquiries a week!"

The two Princeton Junction women, both mothers of two adopted children and two of their own all under 4, started their research in January, intending the guide as a service to other young mothers. "I hope we meet costs!" Mrs. Horowitz murmurs. The guide covers Princeton, Princeton Junction, Plainsboro, Pennington, Hightstown, Lawrenceville and Rocky Hill. Every nursery school and day care center has posting and craying, so the Pre-school Guide brings out the distinctive features, devoting a page to each school.

How Much? You learn whether or not it is a cooperative and if it is, just how much and what kind of cooperation is expected of the parents. The tuition and scholarships, number of classes and size; ratio of teachers (and certification); schedule, entrance requirements and registration deadlines are all listed.

Even the philosophy of the school, such as "the school aims to provide an atmosphere in which the children can develop mentally and socially in the context of a relaxed though controlled program. The children are encouraged to exercise their independence and initiative both in taking care of themselves and choosing their activities."

The distinctive features of each school are described: "Located near an operating farm; field trips; extensive outdoor equipment; music and art teacher once a week and so on."

The Pre school Guide is not evaluative, but it provides basic information. Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Horowitz have found that there is "a fantastic range in tuition costs" from $400 to the free, OEO sponsored centers.

Some tuitions are based on a sliding scale, others on whether or not the parent will drive in a car pool. "The costs are very inexpensive, $40 a semester, some of them," Mrs. Reynolds notes. "But the mother has to participate." Some day care centers include kindergarten, and the children go to public school for a day and to the center for the other half.

There are waiting lists for many of the schools, with applications being taken now.

"Apply early - it's just like college," Mrs. Horowitz says with some amusement. "Some require a personal interview, too."

Two Types. About one-third of the nursery schools stress early learning, the "cognitive approach" it is called. Go into one of them, and you'll see four-year-olds reading. They are taught number concept. The environment is such that if a child is ready to learn school matters, he is taught. Two-thirds of the schools have the group play ("socialization") approach, where the children are introduced to getting along with one another. Copies of the guide may be obtained by writing to Box 37, Princeton Junction, N.J. 08550, enclosing a check for $1.25 payable to "Pre-school Guides."

"BASS TACKS"

And "Tandems" At Hultis. Going into Hultis's shoe store on Nassau Street is like leafing through a catalogue of shoes for all tastes. We found the "pretty" shoes for dressed-up times - most notably by Mr. Easton and Florshiem, - and junky-looking "Yokums," "Ahners" and "Tacks" for the girls who like a style all their own.

There's a whole breed of girls who buy track shoes, boys' sneakers and hiking boots. For them, Hultis's also has slightly feminine versions, too, made by Sandler, Hush Puppies and Bass of Maine. There's a lovely, carefree quality to this footwear: ghillie, eyelets and lacing on track-type shoes ($16.95) in crepe soled, dark red, or navy or natural leather, for instance. These are the Bass "Tacks."

Also Sandler's seven-eyed boots of white canvas, with leather toe and heel, or Panchies, a beautiful sweep of soft suede, folded around the foot and laced at the side in an angle high, flat-soled boot ($12). The price range in all of these is $18 and under.

Going on to more conventional footwear, Hultis's has some attractive Air Step fashions to wear with pants suits - most are high up the front with a decorative buckle or laces, and all have a medium heel. Air Step's "Tandem" designs are for semi-casual wear. These are a very comfortable shoe with a low, but not flat,

ENGAGEMENTS

Fisher Dalby. Miss Mona E. Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Burnett Fisher of 515 Snowden Lane, to Kenton C. Dalby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Dalby of Bethlehem, Pa. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Fisher is a graduate of Princeton High School, Thiel College and the D.T. Watson School of Physiotherapy at the University of Pittsburgh. She is a physical therapist at Somerset Hospital. Mr. Dalby, an alumnus of Blair Academy, attends Muhlenberg College.

York Lynch. Miss Constance York, daughter of Mrs. Georgia H. York of 59 Linden Lane and Eugene L. York of New York City, to Terrance J. Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Lynch of San Marino, Calif. The wedding is planned for March.

Miss York attended Miss Fine's School and is on the advertising staff of Town & Country magazine. Mr. Lynch, a graduate of the University of Southern California, is with the investment banking firm of White, Weld & Co., Los Angeles.

WEDDINGS

Umphrey-Goodville. Miss Susan R. Goodville, daughter of Mr. Mary R. Goodville of New York and John M. Goodville, also of New York, to Wesley Umphrey of Cranbury, son of Mrs. George W. Umphrey of Seattle, Wash., and the late Professor Umphrey of the University of Washington. February 11: at the home of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Abbot Academy and Stanford University. She holds a master's degree in International Law and economics from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy and has recently completed an assignment as area officer in the Africa division of the United Nations Development Program. Mr. Umphrey, also a graduate of Stanford, did graduate work in psychology at the University of Washington. He is a management consultant. The couple will live in Lagos, Nigeria, where Mrs. Umphrey will join the Ford Foundation as assistant representative for West and Central Africa.

Karstad-Blakeman. Miss Beatrice B. Blakeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Leivard Blakeman of 85 Wilson Road and Cataumet, Mass., to Karle Karstad, son of Mrs. Olav Karstad of Barkesboro, Norway, and the late Mr. Karstad. February 13: Trinity Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Karstad, a graduate of Wilson College, holds a master's degree in city planning from the University of Pennsylvania. For the past six years she has been working on the Comprehensive Development Plan for the State of New Jersey. Mr. Karstad, a research electrical engineer, was recently transferred from the RCA Corporation's Sarnoff Laboratory to the new computer center in Marlborough, Mass. He holds a M.S. from the Norway Institute of Technology, Trondheim and served in the Royal Norwegian Navy during World War II.

Alexander Hall on Friday, March 12. The first concert was postponed because of illness. Tickets for the original date will be honored, and remaining seats are on sale at the box office of McCarter.

Folk rock singer Ram Rush will appear at McCarter this Saturday at 8 with guitarist-composer Trevor Yelch. Mr. Rush's current best selling album is "Wrong Kind of the Rainbow."

'INDIANS' ON THE WAY. Due at Lawrenceville Friday. The Periwé Club of the Lawrenceville School will present its 138th major production. Arthur Kaplan's "Indians," Friday and Saturday at 8:30 in the Kirby Arts Center on the school's campus.

"Indians" relates, in terms of a wild west spectacle, the violent collision between white men and red men in the American West and contrasts the historical myth and the historical fact. The play had its world premiere in 1968 in London in a production by the Royal Shakespeare Company. The Periwé staging is one of the first amateur productions and will utilize props, costumes, and scenery elements from the Broadway show of 1969.

The public is invited to attend the Friday night show, for which there is no admission charge.

PLAYHOUSE and ERIC Tora! Tora! Tora! (now playing) recreates the attack on Pearl Harbor of December 7, 1941, attempting to tell the full story, Japanese and American.

Semi documentary in approach, there are extensive scenes devoted to the Japanese point of view, filmed by Japanese directors Toshiu Masuda and Kijiri Fukasaki. The scenery, music, and costumes, but subtitles are used. The Japanese preparation scenes are fascinating and some are beautifully photographed.

Much is made of an urgent message sent to Pearl Harbor by ordinary telegraph. No top official in Washington or Hawaii is really faulted, but a good deal is made of the fact that the attack began before the last Japanese message was delivered to the State Department in Washington. Yet Washington had long since decoded the intercepted message so that the timing of its official delivery did not materially affect the Pearl Harbor disaster one way or another. Sak Yamamura is outstanding as Admiral Yamamoto, Maria Balsam is Admiral Kimmel and Jason Roberts, General Short.

GARDEN

This Man Must Die (now playing) is a French film about the relentless search of a man to track down the person who has killed his young son in a hit-and-run accident. Through a wayward romance, he discovers the killer and plots a perfect crime of revenge.

The writer-director is Claude Chabrol, who has produced a body of work from "Le Beau Serge" in 1958 to "La Femme Infidèle" in 1969 that has been much praised for subtlety and complexity of detail. In his latest film, Chabrol is a penetrating and ever-increasingly profound character and emotion. He never attempts to shock or terrify the audience in the ordinary way which the plot would inspire most direct acts to do.

The cast is impeccable: Michael Duchaussoy as the hero; Jean Yanne as the killer and Caroline Collier as his sister in law. And the color photography of Jean Rabier is superb. (English subtitles)

Doctors' Wives (held over). This is an outrageous, often entertaining, soap opera written by Daniel Taradash — and you soon learn he's not quite serious about the hang-ups of the doctors and their wives, who engage in extra-marital affairs to an extraordinary degree for the whole length of the film.

A bed swap ends in shooting and scandal, shaking the doctors' clime to its foundations. The cast is headed by Dean Cain and Richard Crenn, with Janice Rost, Cara Williams and Carroll O'Connor forming the rest of the wives' team.

heel and a cushioned sole. You'll find a $17 to $20 price range.

Crushed Patent. For dress, the Mr. Easton pumps in spring colors, including a beautiful pastel green, to bring out a particular color in your print dress, or to accent a white dress. ($19) The Eastons are also available in sling-back and open-side pumps, in a crushed patent of bone, black or white. The heels taper at the back in an interesting way. The crushed patent is a very flexible, soft fabric, reminding you of kidskin, but it is far more durable. You'll see it in the Joyce shoes, given a wet leather shine, or pebbled in Tandem's pointy-toe maryjane that is reminiscent of the Twenties.

For an elegant, understated shoe, see the Florsheim fashions that Hulit's have just added to their shelves. Among them is a slim-looking semipump with two narrow tucks of leather across the toe for trim. There is a slight up-curve at the top of the vamp. If your foot needs added support, the Florsheim shoes have a plantar foot inner structure that extends down under the ball of the foot. The soles are real leather. ($20, $24)

And for small fry, Hulit's keeps trying to maintain its full supply of moccasins, low, medium and calf high versions — rich in fringe and very American Indian in appearance. The Sperry "Topsiders" also come in moccasin form, too.

It isn't a bad idea to go after the sneakers early. Hulit's has all types — Keds, PF's, and Sperry "Topsiders" for boating included.

DIP YOUR OWN CANDLE.

At Country Mouse, we came across a 1700 recipe for bouillon cubes several days ago — "take three legs of veal, one leg of beef and a ham, put them in a caldron with celery and carrots and cook for eight hours" the recipe stated. You eventually put the broth through a hair sieve, simmer it for four or five more hours in a smaller pot, pour the mush-like mixture into saucers to cool and solidify. Then the next day you set to again, cutting the mush into round wafers, putting them into the sun to dry, turning them often. And finally you put the wafers away in tins, with a sheet of writing paper between the layers.

All this for nourishing broth on the winter trails, or the long journey from Boston to Maine. Thankfully, this is no longer necessary, but there is a certain fascination to the colonial way of doing things, a fascination that Country Mouse apparently shares. In his Nassau Street shop, near Vandeventer, he has set up a candle dipping enterprise for all ages.

To help things along, because you can spend days at this, you are given a wick which has been dipped enough to have some candle shape. Then you have eight small vats of hot wax — each a different color — to dip your candle in.

The whole thing is very stainless steel and compact — and fascinating. The candle we saw in the works was attractively striped in several colors. (33c)

Whatzit Candles. While we're on candles, Country Mouse also offers "Candle Creations," undecorated erections of wax, beeswax and wire that bear comic resemblances to the bird-and-beast world. The mouse is about 12" high, the hippopotamus is lower, a dog longer. (with a wick coming out of his back).

There are garden squash shapes with eyes and bills and long, wire legs. One of them might be an eagle — or is it a vulture? After you burn down about 1½ inches, insert a wick candle and you can keep the amusing "creations" for a long time. ($8 to $12)

and further on candles, see the non-edible, food scented in novations at Country Mouse. Make your house fragrant with root beer, or coffee, or liquorice, or blueberry scents. These are hand-made, 60 hour candles that open out like a flower from the original, round chunk shape. ($3.25) Natural they are known as "Gourmet Candles."

Country Mouse is offering glazed ceramic mushrooms, snails and turtles in delightful colors to house your burning candles. The mushroom caps and animal backs are dotted with holes. (About 5 in. high, $4) And delightful guest soaps in shell shapes — all mottled sea green in color and delicately scented. (Six for $1.50)

CHRISTMAS CAME LATE — or early — for six-year-old Heath Eldridge of 46 Park Place. She was the winner last week of a $2-dollar collection of Dawn dolls donated by Dave Brewer of Zinder's. "The only thing she asked for Christmas was a Dawn doll," said her mother, Mrs. Howard Eldridge. Heath, a first-grader at the John Witherspoon School, was still a little awed by her good fortune when this picture was taken.

cussed by the present Town Board, Mrs. Sprout said.

Four of the board's seven members are new.

The Township Board is concerned about recent purchase of 29 acres of former Girl Scout land next to the municipal dump ("What damage can be done to the Township, there is even more fly ash and bad smells?" Mrs. Sprout asked), and the board hopes to meet soon with the Sewer Operating Committee to discuss the question.

The board will also examine a new report from the "201 Witherspoon project of Child Guidance. Both municipalities have allocated $10,000 each to the project instead of the $20,000 Child Guidance requested.

"We are satisfied that it is an excellent program," Mrs. Sprout said, pointing out that the question of financing it will have to be raised again before July 1 so that enough funds will be available.

FIVE TEENAGERS HURT

In Great Road Accident. Five teenagers were hurt, three seriously, when their car skidded on an icy spot on the Great Road early Sunday morning and struck a tree. None was from the Princeton area.

Admitted to the intensive care unit of Princeton hospital was the driver, William E. Edmondson, 17, of Ewing. He sustained a broken pelvis and lacerations of the face and arm.

Also admitted to intensive care were Ronald Rush, 17, of Ewing, who received head injuries and a broken leg, and Jackie Morrison, 15, of Trenton. She suffered broken ribs and contusions.

Diane Alvarez, 15, of Trenton, was treated for face lacerations and a shoulder sprain, while Willie Mann, 16, of Ewing was checked for a sore back and released.

Pt. David Polts, who has been unable to speak to the driver yet, is handling the investigation for the Township police. The mishap took place at 2:30 a.m., about 80 feet north of Mountain Avenue.

Sarah Rothrock, 11, 39 Morgan Place, was treated at Princeton Hospital for a small laceration of her knee which she received when she ran from between two parked cars Saturday morning and was struck on Nassau Street.

Orville J. Rothrock told police that he was waiting for his daughter to cross at the Aparri Dance Studio, 217 Nassau. Sgt. John J. Bellow issued no charge against the driver, Mrs. Mary Horbort, 33, 6 Quaker Road, Princeton Junction, who attempted to stop.

Black Panthers' Frisk Tactics Deplored

Princeton University Dean of Students Neil L. Rudenstine has deplored the fact that many of the people who attended the speech of Huey Newton last Tuesday at Jadwin Gymnasium were asked to submit voluntarily to search. Along with serious concern over access to the meeting, he expressed satisfaction that the event itself was orderly and free of disruptive incidents.

In response to questions concerning security arrangements, Director of Security Alan N. Kornblum commented:

"Speakers for the New University Conference (NUC) told the crowd that unless people voluntarily agreed to be searched before entering the main floor Mr. Newton would not speak. I and other University officials announced to the crowd that people were welcome to enter without being searched, and that the event was an open University function."

"Approximately 700 people went inside without being searched. An announcement was then made by one of the Black Panther party from the podium that Mr. Newton would not speak unless the people voluntarily left the main auditorium and agreed to be searched. Everyone inside voluntarily complied with this request to leave the main auditorium."

"I once again stated to the crowd in the lobby that this was an open meeting and that they could come in without being searched. However, having been told again by NUC members that Mr. Newton would not speak unless everyone had been searched, a large majority of people voluntarily submitted to search."

"Some other people reportedly decided not to attend the event under these circumstances even though University officials reportedly stated that persons could enter without being searched. Several persons who objected to being searched were freely admitted. However, others who objected to being searched had their admission blocked by Panthers."

In commenting on this situation, Dean Rudenstine said: "University policy on this issue was formulated in consultation with the Executive Committee of the Council of the Princeton University Community and was made absolutely clear to the NUC, the sponsor of the event, two weeks ago."

"At the time when original commitments for the event were made, the NUC gave assurances that the Black Panthers understood and accepted the policy that admission would not depend on search."

"These assurances were not adhered to. At the speech NUC did not work to achieve compliance with this University policy. We regret the inconvenience caused and deplore the interference with free access to Mr. Newton's speech."

"I intend to bring the matter to the immediate attention of both the Executive Committee of the Council of the Princeton University Community and the Faculty Committee on Undergraduate Life."

but skidded on the road.

Hits Parked Car. Joseph K. Wright Jr., 33, 117 Washington Road, was ticketed for careless driving after he struck a parked car Saturday just before midnight on Witherspoon Street near Maclean.

Mr. Wright told Pilt. Victor Fasanella he was looking in his rear view mirror at a car blinking its lights and the next thing he knew he had struck the car. The latter, owned by George A. Brown of Hightstown, was pushed forward 19 feet by the impact.

The person blinking her lights was Elizabeth B. Wright, 31, 180 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrence Township. "I recognized my estranged husband in front of me and I blinked my lights," she told police. "The next thing I knew, he went straight into the car."

George F. Demenil, 30, of Boston, was charged Sunday with failing to observe a flashing red light at the foot of Wiggins Street. He entered the intersection at Witherspoon Street and struck a station wagon driven by John F. Petrone, 41, 127 Valley Road.

Mrs. Jean Petrone, 41, received bruises of the knee and foot but told police she would see her family doctor.

The impact spun the Demenil car around and it damaged 29 feet of lawn on the northwest corner of the intersection. Both cars were extensively damaged. At the time of the mishap, 2:10 a.m., a light snow was falling and road conditions were slippery.

According to the investigating officer, Pilt. James Agins, in Lawrence Township Saturday, Gerald Vannestrand, 17, of Clementon Road, was seriously injured when his car ran off Cold Soil Road near Blackwell Road and struck a tree. He and a passenger, Joseph Forrentino Jr., 18, of Lawrence Township, were pinned in their car for 20 minutes before they were cut free by rescue squad workers. Vannestrand, who was charged with careless driving, was admitted to Princeton Hospital with a fractured leg and face and head contusions. Forrentino was treated for minor injuries and released.

REALLY OFFICE ENTERED
Calculator, Typewriter Stolen
A $700 calculating machine and a $400 electric typewriter were reported stolen last week from the office of Edmund Cook & Company, 190 Nassau Street.

Pt. Gerald Patterson, who investigated, reported that someone had broken a ground floor window in the rear of the building to gain entry. An agent for Cook, Robert Diaforti, told police the theft occurred over the weekend. No thing else was taken, police said.

Battery Stolen. Bruce Elwell of 42 Patton Hall, Princeton University, told police that his battery was stolen while his car was parked last week in the rear of Quadrangle Club on Prospect Avenue. He valued it at $30.

A tape deck valued at $95 was reported stolen from under the dashboard of his car by Anthony Amalfitano, Jr., 205
Witherspoon Street. He told police that his car had been marked in the lot next to the Princeton Playhouse.

Color TV Missing. Mrs. William Bonthron of the Great Road told Township police that a color television set valued at $335 was taken from her home Thursday between 11:45 p.m. and 1:00 a.m. The set was unlocked, she said.
Pt. Mario Musso investigated.

YOUTH IS CHARGED
With Harsh Possession
James H. Miller, III, 7 Layle Street, has been charged by Borough police with possession of hashish.

Free on $500 bail, he was scheduled to appear in Borough court this Wednesday.
From that court, however, he was being searched at police headquarters following his arrest last week at the A&S Laundrette on Nassau
Street.

Miller was picked up by Detective Huijze and P. Anthony Randone on a warrant from Union Township police for a motor vehicle violation there. After being charged by Detective Huijze, he was turned over to Union authorities.

MAN IS STABBED
After Fattening Apartment
Hash Brickhouse 22, of Trenton, was admitted to the intensive care unit at Princeton Hospital Saturday night after he allegedly forced his way in to an apartment at 290 Witherspoon Street and was stabbed.

Brickhouse, knifed in the side, staggered into the Starr's limo, 9 Birch Avenue, from where police were called. He recovered and was released this week from the hospital.
Police have charged him with

Bus-Stop Designed by Students for Elderly

A small bus-stop shelter for residents of Lloyd Terrace is beginning to look like 1971 Princeton in microcosm.
Involved in its construction are teen-agers, zoning laws,
the role of the state in municipal affairs, senior citizens' life style, the cooperation of public and private educational institutions, municipal finance, citizen organizations and even women's lib.

Lloyd Terrace is the public housing project for the elderly on North Harrison. It also has approved a cross-walk from the project to the opposite side of Harrison so that senior citizens who want a north-bound bus can cross the street with at least somewhat less hazard than at present.

The shelter, proposed by Borough Councilman Martin P.
Lombardo, is being constructed by Ronald Dale's Industrial Arts classes at Princeton High School from the combined design of two young architects (female) in Robert Whitlock's Mechanical Drawing class at Princeton Day School.

Eight PDS students submitted plans. William Short, architect who did Lloyd Terrace, and Robert F. Mooney, Borough Administrator, selected those of Kathy McClure and Jody Miller.

The shelter will be wood with a cinderblock base. The Borough won't have to dig into its budget because the $400 cost will probably be met by a Princeton organization, still unidentified.

Before the shelter can be set up, the Borough will have to appear before its Zoning Board. Non-conforming use?
Sideyard variance? Setback requirements?

"We'll probably need some kind of Zoning Board action," predicts Mr. Mooney.

William H. Dodd, 64, 290 Witherspoon, is pending the pre-charge of atrocious assault, sentiment of all the facts to a charge against Brickhouse's assailant.

ROSES and RHUBARB

By DON ALLEN

Control . . .

Ever skip stones when you were a kid. You'd find a thin sliver of a stone, something that would fit nicely in the palm of your hand and then with a side-ways flip of your wrist you would try to bounce it along the surface of the water as many times as you could. I think my "record" was maybe nine skips. Good but not great. Trouble was in finding a body of water around here big enough. The local streams, are after all, quite narrow, you'd get a skip or two then zing into the opposite bank.
Occasionally by firing off upstream you'd get a few more. Results, though, were generally unspectacular.
The local "Quarry" . . . that favorite swimming spot
. . . where I set my record, big deal that it was, nine skips. All this during the off season for swimming, of course.

Anyway I thought my "skipping" days were over until I took up flying. I found I could skip the little "Champ" I flew almost as many times on landing as ever I could a thin sliver of stone on a pond. The fact that bouncing your airplane on landing is not considered "good form" did not keep me from doing so on many occasions. Flying is safe, I'm convinced of that. But on reflection, I often wonder how I lived through my first 100 hours of flight time.

The Aerona "Champ" that I learned to fly in was a peachy little tandem job and in my estimation great stick and rudder flying. I've never experienced quite the thrill in any other ship. It was a forgiving little craft, that loved to fly and it taught me a lot about myself.

Flying, — just boring a hole in the sky, — is, quite frankly, a piece of cake. Most planes fly perfectly fine all by themselves as your instructor will show you first time out. But landings, ah landings, they are something else. I think most pilots would agree that they seldom make the same landing twice. That, of course, is the challenge of flying and where pilots got some of their greatest satisfaction.

After you solo, you have to log time on cross country flights — all by yourself. This day I flew myself to Hershey, Pennsylvania, then to Kurztown, Pennsylvania, then back home to Princeton. This was the "big" cross country trek, leading to a private pilot's ticket and as I had made all my check points and stops on schedule I was feeling quite smug about the whole thing as I entered the traffic at 100 feet over Princeton Airport, which at that time boasted two grass strip runways.

For some reason it always seemed burly around Princeton, and this day quite unexpectedly I was severely jostled and shook-up by turbulence on my downwind leg. How unfair, I thought, when I had done so well, with victory in sight, to be tested this way. A bad approach is a bad approach, and I should have aborted at once and gone around again;

but with a dogged determination to set down I elected to put in on the grass taxi strip since I had allowed myself to drift badly on final and now was landing, not with the runway, but with that ratty taxi strip we laughingly referred to as the mine field.

I dropped in so badly that I sprang the windshield, and bounced, and bounced, and bounced. The sudden rush of air from the loose windshield, and now louder engine noise scared me to death. Aving from panic, rather than instinct, I jammed the throttle forward, and while I was by this time down, I was suddenly airborne again and heading for John Drake's corn patch that borders the field.

I remember being so close to the corn tassels that I could see the little heads of pollen dangling there. Then suddenly the tree line, up corn, gently, don't stall out, up and over, nose down, me get that airspeed up. You damn fool. There could be no chewing out coming from "Bart", the airport manager, that could equal my own dark thoughts about myself.

I lumbered back into the pattern and made a possible landing. "Bart", of course, was out there to make some significant remarks about my ancestral lineage. That I expected, that I deserved, and that I could take.

But what was far worse for me was the way my contemporaries dealt with me. When I checked in at the flight shack, no laughing, no jibing. Just silence.

A terrible, deafening silence.

WHEN, but I'm getting long winded it's time I tried to sell you a posy or two. Might be you'd like to brighten your life with fresh flowers this weekend. We'll have them in colorful profusion. Our shop looks like a French Flower Market every

STUDENT GETS 3 MONTHS

For IDA Fire. Nine months after he was indicted for arson for attempting to set fire to the Institute for Defense Analyses building off Prospect Avenue, William J. Burlingham, 20, of Suffern, N. Y., has been sentenced to three months in the Mercer County Workhouse.

Burlingham admitted before Superior Court Judge Jerome Moore that he had poured lighter fluid through a metal grate of a ventilator at the IDA building last May 13 and set it ablaze. He was seized by university professors as he attempted to flee. The fire was quickly extinguished.

Because the damage was so slight, Burlingham was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge of attempted arson. If convicted for arson, he could have received a sentence up to five years. He has been free on $25,000 bail since his indictment.

Judge Moore also deferred Burlingham's sentence until the start of the summer, apparently to prevent him from missing classes.

GAS TANK REPLACED

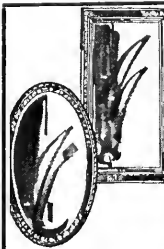

At Getty Station. The replacement of a 1,000 gallon storage tank at the Getty Service Station on Nassau Street is the latest chapter in the long story of the mysterious gas leak on Nassau in the vicinity of the Bell Telephone Building.

The tank was removed after it was discovered there was a hole in the top. Meanwhile, three new 6,000 gallon fiberglass tanks, weighing 1,400 pounds each, have been placed underground at the Mobil Station at the direction of Mobil officials, even though elaborate tests failed to prove conclusively that any one of the four 13-year old tanks at the station were actually leaking.

"Since Mobil has been closed, we haven't had the problem any more, but this isn't conclusive," emphasized Bernard Glover, Borough Superintendent of Buildings. "We've had it happen before, when we thought we had a similar problem cleaned up and we didn't."

"We just have to keep in touch with Bell Tell and wait for lab reports from the Federal Bureau of Mine Safety in Pittsburgh and the New Jersey Department of Health," he said.

The Borough has sent samples of the leaking product to Pittsburgh to try to ascertain which brand of gas it is. "Apparently, it is pretty difficult to tell. No one has been able to give us any information to say 'this is the offender,'" Mr. Glover said.

HAUL-IN SCHEDULED

By Conservation Coalition. Bundled newspapers, old glass and clean aluminum, all for re-cycling, will be collected on Saturday, February 27, at the Princeton University student parking lot, Faculty Rd., from 9 a.m. until noon.

The re-cycling program is a cooperative venture of the Conservation Coalition of Princeton and the Borough and Township. Pouring rain date is Saturday, March 6.

"Since this is a first, and is some ways educational, collection," Mrs. Margot Southerland of the Coalition says, "it is being restricted to glass, aluminum and newspapers. Later the Recycling Program hopes to be able to handle all manner of things which can be reprocessed."

Although this is essentially a Princeton effort, surrounding areas are welcome to bring in items until such time as they can have programs of their own established." She adds that the group will welcome volunteers.

Instructions include: Newspapers should be kept dry and tied into neat bundles of an easy-to-carry size; no magazines this time.

Glass bottles and jars should be rinsed clean, with lids and metal collars removed, although the labels can stay. Store clear and colored glass separately.

Aluminum cans, TV trays, pot pie containers, cooking ware, should be rinsed clean and cans flattened. For identification, aluminum doesn't respond to a magnet, and those cans with no side seams and which can be easily crushed when empty are aluminum. (Some cans have 'aluminum' stamped into the lid, but they are actually bi-metal and will not be taken in this month's collection.) Aluminum should be kept separate from glass. Further information is available from Mrs. Southerland, 924-5258.

The next re-cycling collection will be held Saturday, March 20.

RED CROSS SETS COURSE

For Bloodmobile Volunteers. A training course for blood program aides and volunteer registered nurses will be held from 10 until 12:30 on Tuesday at Red Cross headquarters, 182 North Harrison Street. Volunteers will be trained to serve on the monthly bloodmobiles, learning to register.

We believe Princeton has done very well as regards racial discrimination in housing, considering the obstacles that have faced the city in the past 10 to 15 years there has been a good deal of what used to be called "integration" and so successfully that it now occurs without the former self-consciousness. What appears to the uninitiated to be discrimination in housing is really a lack of housing supply for a large group of our citizens of all races in the low and medium income range.

We are not repeating the history of 15 to 20 years of zoning laws in both the Borough and the Township which eliminate the possibility of integrated priced housing. The Township has not allowed apartments or even the possibility of renting a room, with the exception of a special limited permission passed recently. The Borough has allowed apartments but the requirements make it almost impossible to build them. This type of zoning has contributed to the unusually high price of property in Princeton. This is the zoning Ordinance maintaining the status quo.

We don't believe this zoning was done for racial reasons. It seems to us to be conceived by a well meaning but perhaps misguided desire to keep Princeton the way it was, and to keep the cost of services down and the taxes low.

There are many concerned citizens who realize something must be done to change our approach. Priorities need reassessing. Do we want a middle class community or a town made up of all classes and economic levels so that the people who work here can also live and vote here? Do we really want low and middle income housing? Are we willing to make sacrifices so that this can be achieved?

These and many other questions must be faced squarely.

so that Princeton can remain a community of people who care about each other.

Institute's Privilege.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Most officials go on doing to decide who will wear the crown of Princeton's past? When will the Institute for Advanced Study shame from dancing "daisies" and reembrace the community its first directors served so graciously? Princeton has an urgent obligation to conserve—for all Americans to know and nourish on those few vestiges of her past that concentrate history and serene beauty and interpret to us a gain and even again, when we need to touch home, who we are, from whence we came. Here only can we measure tangibly how near to some men freedom meant.

Historians of the battle are not vague or divided over events of Friday, Jan. 3, 1777 that occurred on or bordering the Weller tract. The thoroughly researched account by Samuel S. Smith ("The Battle at Princeton," Philip Freneau Press, 1967) confirms in most essentials that of my father ("The Princeton Battle Monument," Princeton University Press, 1922).

Today the Institute's trustees and management are given a golden privilege to serve their community and nation with wise vision and genuine magnanimity. They can give instead of self, release rather than destroy. They can buy houses as they come on the market or erect elsewhere, even if that costs in more money for years and other amenities.

The Institute should help re-construct the 1777 houses that already press up on the hillside of Town west and east. So it should want to buy the ONE ONE ONE. Unconscionable that it should hold these 20 acres of our history in William Clark land to urge us to its wall.

Herabouts on Princeton sold all our cause real America's. Let us not Bartholomew's and Capt. John Fleming of Virginia, Capt. Daniel Nor and New Jersey, and Col. John Haslet of Delaware a moment officers. To say nothing of the courageous Gen. Hugh Mifflin. Where is the honor due these officers and many men by our generation of those they served—men who were shot down and bayoneted in their blood on the hard, slippery snow of Princeton that bitter morning? See transfiguration mundi.

Suggestions for the Schools.

To the Editor of Town Topics: During the past few weeks I have heard and read a number of comments about stealing and extortion in the Princeton Middle School. . . .

I have suggested to the Board of Education that they request that the Superintendent develop a realistic estimate of the extent of such activities throughout the Princeton school system and relay these findings to Princeton's concerned parents through the Middle School Newsletter and other school publications.

If there are only a few isolated cases, then obviously the present policies, guidelines, procedures and rules are satisfactory and I believe that most parents understand that no system can guarantee the complete elimination of such acts. If, on the other hand, these are symptoms of a wide spread malady, then current policies, guidelines, procedures and rules should be re-evaluated to see what revisions might be made to effectively minimize and try to eliminate such occurrences. . . .

This particular situation highlights the following needs of the Princeton Regional School system: (1) More effective communications between the Board, Administration and the PTO's so that similar problems and concerns can be quickly identified and dealt with. Periodic open executive board meetings with one PTO at a time might provide such a direct communication path with the Board and the Superintendent. (2) The establishment of an effective public relations policy and function within the school system which would follow up on such problems and assure that the public receives (and understands) a meaningful and direct response to their questions. . . .

The small open executive board meetings could also be used to open a direct and effective communication path to the Board and Superintendent for the teachers, students and interested citizen groups as well. Smaller groups, in an informal environment would be able to increase the effectiveness and constructiveness of such dialogues. . . .

The importance of the public relations function to school boards is well described in a booklet published by the N. J. School Board Association.

Some of the objectives of a PR program as outlined there include: finding out community desires and attitudes; communicating factually and completely with the community; developing and maintaining community confidence in the School Board and staff; and to look ahead, foresee and head off problems caused by lack of understanding. . . . I hope that the School Board accepts my suggestions and develops an assessment of the scope of these problems outlined above and then relays their findings to the public.

A Matter of Priorities.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Much of the current discussion about public school education in Princeton centers about the high school question, but the primary schools, too, deserve our attention. . . .

Why is it that all discussion seems to be couched in terms of rigid versus flexible school systems? Surely experience in Western European countries indicates that if our goal is to encourage the development of independent and critical, thoughtful adults, this goal has been achieved in countries with many different systems.

Isn't the real problem one of establishing clear standards of what knowledge can reasonably be expected of normal children at specific levels of education? . . . (My child flourished in (the) English system where he knew what was expected of him, where he was complimented and sincerely for real effort, and where the material he was learning seemed interesting to him (although much of it was history and economic geography, which he abhors here), and interesting and worthy of respect by adults. . . .

Don't we try to encompass too much in our aims and before accomplish very little of any of them? Surely goal no. nine of the ten listed in the interim report of the Long Range Planning Committee. Quality education should help every child to understand and appreciate as much as he can of human achievement in the natural sciences, the social sciences, the humanities and the arts." should be goal no. one of any educational system.

Goal no. two, "Quality education should help every child acquire understanding and appreciation of persons belonging to social, cultural and ethnic groups different from his own" is another goal of a PUBLIC educational system and its advantage over a private one.

My last question concerns the curious provincialism manifested in our public discussion of specific educational innovations. Starting and ending formal education at an earlier age sounds very interesting. Why not look at countries where this practice is already in effect to see what the advantages and disadvantages have been? Why are children started at 4 in England, at 3 in Israel?

In what countries is the academic calendar different from ours? How is their year divided?

Conversations with other parents convince me that I am not alone in... wondering whether even our general approach is not vitiated by benevolent platitudes.

Suggestions for the Future.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

After three well attended meetings, convened to discuss the interim report of the Citizens' Advisory Committee for Long Range Planning, the well attended meetings of Dr. Selden's committee, as well as an essential area for future development, have become increasingly evident.

On the theoretical level, the committee has done a magnificent job in discerning and describing the contemporary currents of change and, accordingly, urging the schools to prepare students to function in such a complex society, on a concrete level, significant data has been uncovered in terms of demographic trends, determining cost factors for schools and programs, etc. I concur with those who feel that a considerable void remains in terms of positing educational

Moore Street Area Residents Thankful.

To the Editor of the TOWN TOPICS:

The residents of the Moore Street area wish to express sincere appreciation to the many people who assisted in the evacuation of families during the early morning hours on Sunday, February 6, after a gas leak had been discovered.

We especially want to thank Sgt. Anderson, for his quick decisions, and the other policemen on his patrol. Our thanks, also, to Fire Chief Kleber and member of the Princeton Fire Department who alerted and directed the residents to safety; and to the Public Service workmen, Red Cross workers, and members of the Princeton Rescue Squad who worked diligently and without concern for their own safety.

We take great pride in our Princeton community's fine people and earnest who are willing to make themselves available in time of emergency.

goals, program possibilities, educational problems.

Moreover, I read the close budget vote as one indication that many people in Princeton favor further investigations and alternative programs prior to a request for a new building. . . .

I would urge the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long Range Planning (as well as the high school administration, teachers, and students), to continue evaluating alternative models for education. Such a process should include: indicating how the proposed program improves upon present practice(s); suggesting ways in which it may be evaluated; and maintaining fiscal responsibility by striving to rearrange items being replaced and/or improved upon, rather than adding new costs.

Deadline for Giving Nears.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
A medical emergency is an unwelcome, unscheduled punctuation of life's course. The outcome can be influenced to great extent by the availability of appropriate treatment. Residents of this area are truly fortunate in having at hand Princeton Hospital's first Emergency Department where medical care of crucial problems can be provided with maximum efficiency by one's own doctor or by one of the full-time emergency room physicians.

In the past year, two members of my own family have required treatment in the hospital's Emergency Department and as inpatients. I can speak as a concerned relative and as a physician familiar with many similar facilities when I say that they could not have had better care anywhere.

However, the continually increasing need for the Emergency Department's services has produced marked overcrowding. The Annual Hospital Fund Appeal, directed toward the construction of a larger Emergency Department, has shown disappointing results to date due to insufficient

All of these ventures seem to coalesce around one truth: the primary importance of educational goals over buildings. New buildings have a way of subtly misleading us, especially if we conclude that the erection of a multi-million structure will solve the high school's support from the community which stands to gain the most from this advance. Without a more modern setup, it will become more and more difficult to provide efficient care and we may have to face acceptance of less-than-optimum results.

This appeal is directed to all areas residents. Less than a week remains in which the required goal can be reached. If you have already given, please give again, even if it can only be a small added amount. If you have overlooked this urgent cause until now, please recognize its importance to yourself, your family and to many others and send a contribution right away to the Princeton Hospital Annual Fund, Princeton, N. J. 08540.

Art Works Range from Africa to Victorian Era

Art Museum. An understanding of African art gives some insight into the efforts of early man to comprehend and control the world around him.

Most of this art, as we know it, was and often is, used in tribal efforts to make contact with supreme powers. The utilization of ancestors as intermediaries, between man and the spirits that controlled him is the raison d'être for most primitive African sculpture.

A very fine collection of African primitive art can now be seen at the Art Museum, Princeton University. The show represents the work of many nations and many different tribal cultures that flourish within the continent. The art is almost entirely of a religious nature and its range of subject and style demonstrates the difference in the goals and needs of the varying tribes.

The artistic value of the work of display is great. A student of primitive art can draw many parallels between these cultures and the primitive works of other parts of the world.

American Indians, early Latin cultures and Pacific art have many threads that weave a pattern of common vision and style in their creations. A student of contemporary forms will find many specific and general influences of art done in this century. Ashanti fertility dolls do not differ widely from Paul Klee's Mask of Fear. One could construct several Picasso's from the existing structured figures, masks and animal forms.

The human form has been manipulated creatively, although for religious reasons, and the very best and most original humanistic art can find its ancestry in this African sculpture show.

The Drawing Room Drawings have always been considered the finest statement of the artist because of the monoducy of their execution. The technical and time-consuming demands of paint and print are not standing between the artist's conception and his final product. This feeling of freshness and the presence of the artist's hand make this show of drawings at The Drawing Room, 33 Witherspoon, exhibiting.

Gouin Aristide Sartorio placed his art in late Victorian times. Reflecting the attitude of his age, his works are sometimes religious and sometimes mystical. Romantic symbolism is very much present, yet the feeling of the show is definitely classical.

Sensitively drawn figures are the mainstay of this collection.

lection. Most fluid and exciting, with a contemporary feel to their structure, are a series of drawings, the Crucifixion. Large areas are accented by strong wash and contrasted with delicate line to create a powerful and dramatic effect.

More elaborate, romantically styled drawings, with classical subject matter and several symbolic figure studies are also included in this collection.

The Eye for Art. A woodcut by Leonard Baskin that is large as life is even better, as well as bigger, than the usual fine figurative work of this artist. "Man of Peace" embodies all the qualities of Baskin's smaller wood engravings.

Sensitive line contrasts of textural areas and a profound subject all join together to make this 42 by 31 inch woodcut a poetic experience. The Eye for Art is located at 7 Spring.

Gallery 100. Color, color everywhere. Two artists, one primitive and one sophisticated, brighten the walls at Gallery 100, 100 Nassau.

The front gallery shows the work of Druce Schaffer. Mrs. Schaffer has managed to remain a primitive despite her fine art degree from Wellesley. Her palette is raw but her creatures are merry. The artist has created a cartoon-like feeling with her smiling lions and grinning monkeys.

Holzer Kilander adds his collection of brightly colored works to this exhibition. Kilander has mixed his own medium by combining pastel pigments with a base to create translucent color. Farm scenes, flowers and other cheerful subjects are all simply structured and painted in flat forms.

He-len Schwartz

Brilliant color, arranged in small, almost mosaic like patterns of precision and harmony, characterizes the paintings of Philip Moore, Princeton University writer, artist in residence, whose works are now on view at the Princeton Youth Center.

With the paintings, all of which are done in acrylics, are wood carvings, plaques and vivid door-way or wall hangings with geometric designs painted on a stiff nylon mesh.

They will be on exhibit and for sale, through Friday of this week and may be seen by appointment during the day and evenings from 8:10 p.m.

Mr. Moore comes from Guyana, on the north coast of South America. As he points out, his country has for many years been the home of Chinese, Hindi, whites, blacks and he says with a smile, "You must grow up loving the way of life of others."

This view and a deep strain of mysticism permeate the work of the artist. A striking carved wood chair, which he calls an "inflation stool" has three Henry Moore-like figures forming the low back. When you stand behind the chair, you see that the figures arms, —Continued on Page 26

FESTIVAL OF SONG SET

10 Area Groups to Perform. Ten Princeton area vocal groups will perform Thursday, March 4, at McCarter Theatre for the benefit of the Princeton United Community Fund. Seats are available at the McCarter box office at $5 for orchestra and $4 for balcony.

The Princeton High School Choir will open a program, followed by Princeton University's Tigertones and Nassos, Princeton Theological Seminary Choir, the Opposite Sextette, Columbus Boy Choir, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, the Princeton University Glee Club, the wildernessers, and the Westminster Chapel Choir.

Herbert Hobbler, who originated the idea some 10 years ago, will be master of ceremonies of this fourth "United Festival of Song."

The singers are donating their time and the proceeds will go to the Memorial Endowment Fund of the Princeton Area United Community Fund.

CLASSIC, ROMANTIC

In DeLarocha Program. Compositions from the classic and romantic composers will be featured by Alicia de La Roche when the Spanish pianist comes to McCarter on Monday, March 8 for a recital in the Music-at-McCarter series. In the first half of her program, she will play Beethoven's Rondo in G Major, the Mozart Sonata in B-flat, K 233 and the Bach Busoni "Chaconne."

Following intermission, she will play a group of compositions by Schumann including the "Romance," Opus 28 and one of the "Novellettes," Opus 21. Two Liszt works will follow the "Waldesuschen" and the "Valse Impromptu." Sonora de La Roche will conclude by playing the Chopin "Berceuse," Opus 57 and "Polenaise-Fantasia," Opus 61.

2 CONCERTS SCHEDULED

By Friends of Music. John Sessions, cellist and Edward Laufer, pianist will be the artists in this week's Friday Night Chamber Music concert, presented by The Friends of Music at Princeton. The recital will be held in the Woolworth Center Rehearsal Room at 8:30 p.m.

The program will be Davidovsky's Synchronisms for "Cello and Electronic Sound; Denisov: Three Pieces for Cello and Piano; Imbrie: Sonata for Cello and Piano; Sessions: Six Pieces for Violoncello, and Berg: Four Pieces for Clarinet and Piano, transcribed for cello by Mr. John Sessions.

Mr. Sessions and Mr. Laufer are on the faculty of Smith College. The concert is open to the public, admission free.

The Friends of Music will also present a second free Chamber Music Concert Friday, February 26th, at the Woolworth Center Rehearsal Room at 8:30 p.m. The program will be music for woodwind quintet (Hindemith: "Kleine Kammermusik" and Ibert: "Trois Pieces Breves") and music for violin and piano (Beethoven: "Sonata in G Minor" and Saint-Saens: "Introduction and Rondo Capriccio so").

The woodwind quintet is made up of members of the Princeton University Orchestra; each has been principal of his section. James Wina, flute, graduated from Princeton in 1968 and is now working at the University Admissions Office. John Sackett, clarinet, and Bruce Douglas, French horn, are Princeton undergraduates. Stephen Berkehammer, oboe, is a student at the Juilliard School. Kern Holman, bassoon, is a graduate student in Music History. Philippe Djokic, violinist, is the concertmaster of the Princeton University Orchestra. Mr. Djokic won this year's Concerto Competition and will be the soloist in the Orchestra's concert on March 5th at Alexander Hall.

ORCHESTRAS TO PLAY

Varied Program Planned. An orchestra festival will be held on Wednesday, February 24, by Princeton school and community musicians. Students of the High School and Middle School will be joined by members of the Community Orchestra in a program that features the two school ensembles separately and in combination and then in a final group of numbers with the orchestra.

The Middle School will play the music of three Italian masters, Vivaldi, Corelli, and Scarlatti in a new arrangement by Princeton composer Philip Gordon, following which they will play a new arrangement of Japanese folk tunes by Erickson. The High School Chamber Orchestra will offer the first movement of the Vivaldi Four Violin Concerto with two soloists from the High School and two from the Middle School. Jill Friedman, grade 12, Elizabeth Billington, grade 11, Francine Swartzentruber, grade 8, and Robert Ellis, grade 7, are the soloists.

The two orchestras will combine in "Two Sketches for Orchestra" by Grunman, Elaine Lutchak, a senior, will be soloist in a movement from the Mozart A Major Piano Concerto. The closing group of numbers will bring all three orchestras together in the music of Vaughan-Williams, Handel-Whitney and Stravinsky.

The guest artist for this occasion will be Nadia Koutzen, violinist, a Princeton resident and mother of three in the Princeton schools. She has been a soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra and this year gave a Town Hall recital in New York.

The concert will be held in the auditorium of the John Witherspoon School at 8 p.m. and is free to the public. Virginia Switten and Sylvan Friedman will direct.

News Of Clubs and Organizations

The Republican Club of Princeton will hold its first meeting of 1971 at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Chestnut Street Firehouse. All interested Republicans are invited. Charles Greathouse, president, said that this will be the first of a series of meetings which will be held to provide a sounding board for Princeton Republicans.

Four general topics will be introduced: Review of the candidate selection process; how best to pool potential resources; human and other; and, on a year-round basis, general discussion of financial resources; and ideas for more varied Republican activities.

"Fashion and Festival," presenting Miss Ann Kelly of Irish International Airlines, will be the program for this Thursday's meeting of the Woman's Club of Princeton at the Shrine Club on River Road at 1:30. Miss Kelly, assisted by club members as models, will give a special display of new Irish fashions. In addition to this fashion show, Miss Kelly will describe well-known Irish festival occasions. Mrs. K. L. O'Brien is chairman of hostesses.

Friday Club: 12:30 this week in the YWCA lounge. Mrs. Lewis B. Caylor will speak on "How We Got Our Bibles." Those needing a ride should call the Y, 924-9825, before 11 a.m., the day of the meeting.

Wyman Club: will hold its annual bake sale at 10 a.m. Saturday on the upper level of the University Store.

Swarthmore College: will hold a luncheon for alumni, parents and friends of College in Central New Jersey, Saturday, February 27, at the Nassau Club. Dr. Charles E. Gilbert, Provost of Swarthmore College, will speak on "The Future Academic Program of a Small College," and Joseph B. Shane, vice president of the college, will discuss current campus activities. Chairman of the affair is Robert C. Farrey, 155 Dudds Lane, executive vice president of the New Jersey Bankers Association. The luncheon committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Thurn and D. Jones Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mahler, Mr. and Mrs. W. Marshall Schmidt. Reservations are being received by Mr. Farrey.

Ladies Auxiliary of the First Aid and Rescue Squad: 8 p.m., Monday, at their home.

Princeton Adult School: has elected officers and trustees for the year 1971-72. Mrs. James Johnson is chairman.

Sister church, Arthur Church, current chairman; Mrs. Daigh North, treasurer; Mrs. Ernest Lygton, secretary; and Mrs. Leland Allen, nominating chairman.

Two new trustees elected for a two-year term were Mrs. Edward Gibson and Mrs. Lyman Spitzer. Trustees to serve a one-year term: Mrs. Henry Poasner, Mrs. Harry Kahn, Mrs. Richard Wilhelm, Mrs. Johnson, Richard Hogg, Michael Curtis, A.A. Anstett, and Edward Johnson. Trustees to serve a two-year term: Mrs. Marchward, Mrs. Lygton, Mrs. Malcolm Diamond, Mrs. Carl Hemen, Mrs. Edward Gibson, Mrs. Spitzer. Trustees to serve a one-year term: Mrs. Daigh North, Mrs. Anne Shepherd, Mrs. Leland Allen, Mrs. Elmer Albert, Mrs. Floyd Campbell, Michael Rockland and Heinz Heinemann.

Princeton Hadasah, B'nai B'rith, Women's Division, and Men's Club of the Jewish Center: have scheduled a joint meeting for Wednesday, February 24 at 8:30 p.m. at the center. The feature of the evening will be a three-part musical program by Regina Spigel, soprano, highlighting Jewish and Hebrew songs, art and folk songs of various origin and operatic arias. Mrs. Spigel is accompanied by Joanna Krumholz, pianist, and will be joined in some duets by Claire Greenberg, soprano.

Mrs. Spigel conducts the choir of Adath Israel Congregation, where she is a soloist, and also sings in operatic workshops in Trenton.

The evening will end with refreshments served by the three sponsoring women's organizations.

The first program meeting of the newly organized Princeton chapter of the Federation of American Scientists (FAS) is to be held Monday evening at 8 p.m. in McCosh Hall, will feature a lecture on "FAS and the President's Budget," by Jeremy Stone, national director of the Washington, D.C., based organization in attendance at the meeting. Dr. Robert C. Axmann, chairman of the FAS, said that the Princeton chapter was especially interested in relating natural and social scientists, physicians, engineers and students.

Established originally to inform national legislators about atomic weapons and atomic energy, FAS currently is concerned with such issues as the arms race, national and international exchange of scientific knowledge. Monday's meeting is open to the public.

Outings will be the topic of the Sierra Club meeting to be held on Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. at Peyton Hall on the Princeton University campus. There will be a display and discussion of equipment for day hikes, overnight camping and canoe trips. Don Luck of Cranbury will demonstrate the equipment for outings. Ludwig Bahler of Kendall Park, outgoing chairman for the Southern New Jersey Group of the Sierra Club, will show slides illustrating recent trips. Mrs. Sydner Pernick of Princeton will discuss opportunities for outings in the area.

A dinner meeting of American Society for Quality Control, Princeton Section, will be held on Thursday at the American Hotel in Freehold following by a Brockway Glass Plant tour at 8:30. John Anthony, plant manager, and A. Paul Hubbard, area manager, Quality Control, will discuss "The Making of Glass Containers from Raw Material to the Finished Product."

● An Open Letter To The SECRETARY OF STATE OF NEW JERSEY:

Hon. Paul J. Sherwin, Secretary of State
State House
Trenton, New Jersey

February 17, 1971

Dear Mr. Sherwin:

You will recall that you have been quoted in a recent issue of the (Gannett) Courier-Post as denying that Consumer Bureau is in fact what we publicly state it to be, namely, a non-profit corporation. You are quoted as basing this opinion on the fact that Consumer Bureau is incorporated under New Jersey statute Title 14 instead of Title 15, the latter being the statute under which most New Jersey non-profit corporations are formed.

The question as to whether Consumer Bureau is or is not non-profit is at this time of only academic importance in itself, since the Bureau's net income for 1970, as reported to the Federal Government, was $73.39, which sum is, by the terms of the Bureau's charter, automatically earmarked for later use in advancing consumer interests.

What is important here is that, whether you realize it or not, the prestige of your high office is being damaged by some elements of the Camden County business community to discredit Consumer Bureau and our program of consumer information and assistance now being introduced into that area.

You will further recall that on December 14, 1970, a few days after you had been quoted in the Courier-Post as denying our non-profit status, and after several unsuccessful attempts on my part to reach you by telephone or in person, I delivered a letter to you in care of your secretary explaining in detail why we regard and publicize ourselves as legally a non-profit corporation. If you will refer to this letter, you will find that it includes, among others, the following paragraphs:

"(1) Originally incorporated in January, 1967, as an ordinary Title 14 business corporation, Consumer Bureau had to be privately subsidized to operate at all during the entire year 1967 and most of 1968:

"(2) In August, 1968, when it began to appear that Consumer Bureau could support itself as an independent consumer organization, the original charter of the corporation was amended by adding the following: 'The corporation shall be accepted by the Secretary of State at that time and are now on file in your office: "SEVENTH: No part of the net earnings of the corporation shall inure to the benefit of any shareholder, officer or director of the corporation (except that reasonable compensation may be paid for services rendered to or on behalf of the corporation);

"EIGHTH: Upon voluntary or involuntary dissolution, the shareholders shall be paid the par value of their shares, and no more, out of the corporation's assets. The balance of the assets, if any, shall be given to the Office of Consumer Affairs of the State of New Jersey or to its successors in public service to the consumer."

"(3) At the time these amendments were filed — and again last week — we obtained professional legal advice that in light of these amendments it is both lawful and proper for us to describe ourselves as non-profit corporations, as long as we operate in fact on a non-profit basis, and regardless of whether we are incorporated under Title 14 or Title 15.

"There is nothing in Title 14 (now Title 14A), we are told, to prevent a Title 14 corporation from operating on a strictly non-profit basis nor in Title 15 to prevent a Title 15 corporation from making a profit."

"The New Jersey Corporation Tax Bureau will confirm to you that nearly every Title 15 non-stock so-called non-profit corporations do in fact make profits and pay taxes to the State on these profits.

"Conversely, we are advised, Consumer Bureau's amended charter is more strictly non-profit in character than the charters of many non-profit Title 15 corporations. "In fairness to yourself, to us and to the consumers and business people we serve, we hope that you will in an early public statement correct the erroneous opinions about Consumer Bureau which have been attributed to you in the Courier-Post."

To date, we have not had the courtesy of a reply to this letter, nor even an acknowledgment.

The Courier-Post, a member newspaper of the Gannett chain, which originally published the opinions about us attributed to you, has refused to publish any reply from us to these opinions, even in advertising space which we have twice attempted to buy for that purpose.

Now, more recently, the Better Business Bureau of South Jersey has circulated a letter to its 800 business members repeating your quoted opinions in the Courier-Post, in an undignified effort to discredit us and our program.

Since the columns of the Courier-Post are closed to us, and rather than remain any longer silent, we are using the local press, the free air of Princeton is call publicly to account for the ill-advised comments about us attributed to you last December.

Whereas, (1) you have not been admitted to the New Jersey Bar; (2) the duties of your office do not require you to form and publish legal opinions regarding documents in your custody; (3) the legal opinions attributed to you in the Courier-Post of December 8, 1970, are in direct contradiction of professional legal opinion, including applicable court decisions and (4) these opinions attributed to you cast doubt on our integrity and credibility, we now therefore call upon you to disavow or withdraw these opinions in a suitable public statement to that effect.

We also call upon you to take such steps as may be necessary to obtain for your public files at the State House, as required by law, an up-to-date Annual Report — missing from your custody: (a) the legal opinions attributed to you in the Courier-Post or trustees of the Better Business Bureau of South Jersey.

As soon as we receive your reply, we will be glad to publish it at our expense in this newspaper — and also in the Courier-Post, if the necessary arrangements can be made to publish in the Courier-Post both this letter and your reply.

Sincerely,
Joseph M. Boyd President

● An Open Letter To The GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY:

Hon. William T. Cahill, Governor
State House
Trenton, New Jersey

February 17, 1971

Dear Governor Cahill:

In your public statements as Governor, you have gone on record as favoring greater protection for New Jersey consumers in the market place.

This being our fourth year of service to consumers in Princeton and vicinity, we have therefore presumed that we would enjoy at least the friendly interest of your Administration — especially since our program of consumer information and assistance is conducted at no expense whatever to New Jersey taxpayers.

Instead, we have encountered at the hands of your Secretary of State, Hon. Paul J. Sherwin, a surprising display of hostility and discourtesy towards Consumer Bureau, details of which are contained in the accompanying copies of our letters to Mr. Sherwin dated December 14, 1970 and February 17, 1971, respectively.

Now that you have been informed of this matter, we look to you to use your good offices to correct the injustice done to us by the ill-advised legal opinions attributed to Mr. Sherwin in the (Camden) Courier-Post.

At the same time, we hope that you will reassure New Jersey consumers that your Administration has not adopted a policy of siding with Better Business Bureaus against private, independent consumer self-protection organizations.

As soon as we receive your reply, we will be glad to publish it at our expense in this newspaper.

Sincerely,
Joseph M. Boyd, President

● A NON-PROFIT COMMUNITY SERVICE

A Message to Our Princeton Members and Friends:

While preparing last Fall to serve consumers in Burlington, Camden and Gloucester Counties, to the South of here, we became conscious in various ways that somebody down there doesn't like us.

As a result of our experience thus far in this new territory, we have learned firsthand how that cherished constitutional freedom of the press, which is part of our national heritage, can be used by some publishers to suppress information as well as disseminate it.

We have also learned that Better Business Bureaus, although they undoubtedly provide useful services to consumers, especially in connection with complaints against out-of-state business firms, are openly opposed to any organized form of consumer protection — either public or private — other than that which they themselves provide under the guidance of a few selected business leaders in each community they serve.

We are nevertheless proceeding with our plans to offer our consumer information and assistance service in South Jersey. Our Register of recommended business people now lists more than 2,000 firms in Burlington, Camden and Gloucester Counties and several consumer volunteers from this new area have joined our Good Neighbor Panel, which meets regularly at the Cherry Hill Inn to review and evaluate South Jersey consumer complaints received by our Hawthorne answering service.

We will report to you from time to time what progress we are making on our way South and how we are dealing with obstacles, placed in our path by the Courier-Post and the Better Business Bureau of South Jersey and other public or private influences.

Needless to say, the moral support which you continue to give us in the Princeton community is of inestimable value to us in dealing with such obstacles.

Sincerely,

● An Open Letter To The ATTORNEY GENERAL OF NEW JERSEY:

Hon. George Kugler, Attorney General
State House Annex
Trenton, New Jersey

February 17, 1971

Dear Mr. Kugler:

The attached copies of our letters of December 14, 1970 and February 17, 1971, respectively, to Hon. Paul J. Sherwin are self-explanatory.

As indicated in both these letters, we have been repeatedly advised by counsel that, in light of our amended charter, and although we are incorporated under Title 14, we are just as free to describe ourselves as non-profit as if we were incorporated under Title 15.

Since we do not solicit donations or grants, and since we also wish to be free to influence legislation affecting consumers, we neither claim nor seek State or Federal tax exemption.

In the conduct of our novel type of consumer service, we have been particularly careful to respect the law and the rights of both consumers and business people. We have, therefore, at every stage of our development, and at considerable expense, obtained and followed the advice of competent legal counsel.

Now, as a result of legal opinions attributed to Mr. Sherwin in the Courier-Post, we find ourselves in a very difficult position. We must overcome the destructive effects of these opinions, which directly contradict the professional opinions we have received from our attorneys, but which carry with them the prestige of Mr. Sherwin's high office.

We therefore respectfully request from you a ruling or opinion as to whether, on the basis of our Articles of Incorporation, as amended, and as now filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and assuming that our service is in fact conducted on a non-profit basis, we are entitled to describe ourselves as a non-profit corporation.

We attach for your reference copies of written opinions which we have obtained on this question from two different attorneys and on the basis of which we have consistently characterized ourselves as a non-profit corporation. As to the actual non-profit conduct of our service, our books and records are always open for examination by any qualified government agency or legitimate private interest.

We believe that, after reading the opinions of our attorneys and making your own interpretation of the law, you will agree that we have the right to describe ourselves as a non-profit corporation.

However, if you should give us a contrary opinion, we will duly consider your opinion and either comply with it or appeal to the courts for a conclusive determination of the matter. We will be glad to publish your reply at our expense in this newspaper.

Sincerely,
Joseph M. Boyd, President

are linked. The front of the seat is a pair of hands, clasped.

It is a chair for meditation, and in the front room of the Youth Center, it appears in the center of a tranquil, almost ritualized group of carvings and plaques. A painted wooden disc has holes for 12 ritual candles, and for incense.

Because Mr. Moore is a poet as well as artist, many of his works, his paintings and hangings in particular, illustrate his poems.

"Mother New Year," for example, illustrates his poem about the companion of Father Christmas who remains at home during the holy days and "kisses us all to love and understand."

On the other side of this Center, at the Youth Center, hangs from the middle of the front room two that both sides are visible. The charming painting called "Friday Morning in Town," the beggars take advantage of the beggars' clean their homes and burn cleansing incense, to go a begging. But the "homeless" find that gives to the beggar is matched by her other hand that begs something for herself from God.

The Youth Center library is dominated by a striking figure of a reclining woman, carved from wood and painted in deep jewel tones. On the shelves are heavy bronze plaques of a man and woman embracing, symbolizing an equal sharing by man and woman of the burdens of life.

Here also is a narrow panel called "Falling Leaves." In contrast to the tropical exuberance of Mr. Moore's larger carvings, this is a view of nature seen during autumn in the temperate zone.

"Birdies and the Boy" is a legend for children. The words themselves appear in the painting and they teach kindness to birds and animals.

"Joe Cabango" illustrates a story Mr. Moore learned from his grandmother. The painting is fascinating in its minute detail, with small figures closely arranged in patterns, telling the folk tale. In the lowest left corner is Joe, hanging head down as a symbol that when he enters the spirit world, he must reverse himself and become a better man.

"WAR" IS LECTURE TOPIC to Adult School Series. The special lecture series on "The Counter Culture," which meets at 8 p.m. in room 143 on Thursday nights at the Princeton Adult School will have as its guest speaker this week Dr. Richard A. Falk, Mithank Professor of International Law of Princeton University. Professor Falk's topic is "War."

Disarmament and ending the war in Southeast Asia have been of main concern to him for many years. He has traveled to North Vietnam as well as all over the world seeking ways to find a compromise that would be acceptable to the United States, North Vietnam and the Vietnamese for the neutralization of South Vietnam.

PRINCIPAL NAMED

For Dutch Neck. Patrick J. Wilder, formerly a teacher and administrator in the Trenton Public Schools, has been appointed principal of the Dutch Neck School of the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District. He assumed his new duties on February 1. A graduate of St. Peter's College in 1962, Mr. Wilder received his master's degree from Rutgers and is now enrolling in the Rutgers doctoral program.

CANDIDATES FILE

For West Windsor. There will be no contest this year for the four available West Windsor seats on the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School board. The election will be held Tuesday, March 30.

The regional board has seen members from West Windsor and two from Plainsboro. Only West Windsor members will be elected this year because the two Plainsboro terms run until 1973.

Incumbents Robert W. Prigge, North Mill Road, Princeton Junction, and Richard S. Schneider, Bolmar Avenue, Grover Mill, have filed for reelection. A third incumbent, Emil V. Vitke, does not plan to run again.

Dr. William R. Watt, Montgomery Street, Princeton Junction, has filed for the position to be vacated by Mr. Vitke. He has been serving on the board since September, 1970 when he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Margaret Bacon.

Mrs. Terry Gunn of Princeton Junction, has filed for the one year remaining of Mrs. Bacon's term.

The other West Windsor representatives on the board are Dr. Deane Bernheimer, Robert C. Duncan and Walter L. Myers. Plainsboro's representatives are Philip Rodefeld and John Versnel.

BUSY MAN: Ed Swift, Princeton goalie, kicks away a Yale shot in Saturday's hockey game in Baker Rink. When Ellis, whose fortunes in the sport have not been high, blanked the Tigers, 7-4, it marked their first shutout victory in ten years. (Photo by R. Bruce Becker)

SPORTS In Princeton

ONLY FIVE MORE TO GO
End in Sight for Tiger Six. Well before the final buzzer in the Princeton Yale hockey game Saturday, it was apparent that players and fans alike will not be sorry to see the current season end. As the Elis joyfully skated to a one-sided triumph, the crowd was so quiet that even its low voiced conversation was muted and the players in Orange and Black were simply going through the motions.

Regrettably, it had to be one of the worst games a Princeton team has ever played in Baker Rink. There are 45 hockey-playing colleges in the east and Yale's 2-14-1 mark left the Elis 41st in the pecking order. Somehow, or so the Tigers managed to lose to the 41st worst team in the east, 7 to 0.

In case you are wondering who - beside Princeton - is poorer than Yale, the other three are Assumption, MIT and Ithaca. Assumption is 1-5, MIT has a tie in five games and Ithaca, 0-1, lost its only game 7 to 1 and then presumably gave up the sport, at least for the season.

For a variety of reasons that no one could possibly have foreseen when the campaign began last December on a relatively optimistic note, this Princeton team may go into the record book as the worst in the 70 year history of the sport. In 1956-57, the Tigers were 2 and 17, and if the current aggression does not win again, it will not only be 1-22 but will become the only Princeton team never to have won a game in Baker Rink. The lone victory it has recorded was on Colgate's ice at Hamilton, N.Y.

Elis Take Charge Early. Yale got its first goal at 9:31 of the first period when there were three men serving penalties, two of them members of the home team. Another followed at 14:01; it was 5-0 after two and early in the third round, even the Yale goalie got into the act when a direct pass he fed to a defenseman who skated the length of the ice and scored was credited as an assist.

Earlier in the week, the Tigers lost their 16th of the season to Penn, 8 to 2. They took a brief lead when Jim Tiltmeyer scored at 11:06 while the Quakers were a man short, but the visitors tied the score four minutes later and never trailed again. It was Penn's first victory here in the 21 game rivalry.

Defensive problems have been present all season long but the offense now has dwindled from inconsistent to virtually non-existent. In the last three games, the Tigers have scored a total of just two goals.

Following Wednesday night's trip to Pennsylvania to play Penn, the Orange and Black will go to New Haven Saturday for a return contest with Yale. Harvard will be in Baker Rink next Wednesday; thereafter, a game away against Cornell and the March 6 meeting here with Dartmouth will bring matters to a close.

500 MARK IN SIGHT
For Tiger Basketball Team. Never able to reach the break even point since the season began more than two weeks ago, Princeton's young basketball team can move a notch above it by Saturday night. To do so, however, it must defeat the best basketball team in Harvard history, one that has currently shaken up the standings as it holds the runner-up spot with a 7-1 mark. Since play began in the Ivy League 20 long winters ago, the Crimson has never won the championship.

The Tigers won a pair last weekend, beating Yale and Brown on the road, boosting themselves into a share of first division in the Ivy standings with a 4-4 mark and raising their season's record to 9-10. Now, if they can top Dartmouth Friday night in Jadwin and turn the tables against Harvard after having lost, 62-

60, at Cambridge in early January, they will be on the way to a winning season. Four more Ivy games remain after this weekend.

Three Crimson players have been rated among the top ten scoring leaders in the Ivy League, balance that no other team can show. Two are sophomores, 6-6 Jim Brown and 6-7 Floyd Lewis, while the third is Captain Dale Dover. All are averaging around 16 points a game.

Harvard is 12-8 on the season, probably not good enough to earn a berth in the NIT even if it does finish second in the Ivy League. The Crimson will be at the Palestra to face Penn Friday night, and Princeton can win here if it plays up to its capabilities. As its fans well know, however, this has not always been its habit this winter.

Dartmouth, better than Yale and Cornell but not matching its pre-season expectations, has won 7 of 15. The Indians, a 20-point victim of Princeton's last month, have two high scoring scorers in Paul Erland and Jim Brown, and little else. Erland is the leading Ivy scorer with an average around 26 points, while Brown is steady at about 18 per game.

TIGERS WIN TWO

Top Yale and Brown. Leading Yale by six points (39-33) at 11:30 a.m. on Feb. 29 at half-time, Princeton basketball team won a pair of road games last weekend without much difficulty. Captain Bill Sieckler and Brian Taylor were in double figures both nights, the former totaling 30 on the two games and the sophomore adding 37.

Sophomore guard Jim Sullivan shot a career high at New Haven, contributing 16 to the victory as the Elis played the Tiger guards man for man and combined that with a three man zone. It didn't work — Taylor, Sullivan and Ted Makas rebounding for 42 points while Sieckler popped away over the zone for seven field goals and added six free throws.

It was Sieckler's fine defensive work on Rudy Tyler that helped beat the Bruins into submission, the Brown guard scoring only 9 points. 15 below his average. The Rhode Island quartet held a 9-5 lead in the early going, but the Tigers threw in six points in a row and were never headed thereafter. Five minutes into the second half, they had built their 37-29 lead at the intermission into a 50-32 advantage as sophomore Bill Daake (11) and Bill Kapler (13) joined Sieckler and Taylor in double figures.

3-WAY TRACK BIEF

I.V.P. Meet Saturday. The annual indoor track meet which in 1966 dedicated Jadwin Gymnasium will be staged there again Saturday among Harvard, Yale and Princeton. The first field events will be begun at 2, with the preliminaries in track at 2:30 and the finals at 3.

Harvard, the defending champion, is virtually certain to repeat, but the Tigers should finish ahead of Yale. Last weekend, Penn won the one-time Polar Bear meet here, scoring 70 points to 56 for Princeton and 12 for Columbia. The Tigers broke University records in the shot, the long jump and the hurdles, but could not top the balanced Quakers as they lost for the first time this winter.

WRESTLERS WIN ANOTHER

Five Harvard Saturdays. Traveling to Cambridge Saturday to meet Harvard, an unbeaten Ivy action, the Princeton wrestling team may have its problems with the Crimson. Bath Emil Deherne in the 190 lb. class and heavy weight Chuck Dressel remain ed questionable entries following injuries which kept them out of the Brown match last weekend.

The Tigers topped the Bruins with ease, 28 to 6, losing only two bouts. Earlier in the

HAMILTON NEXT FOR PHIS

Ewing Here Tuesday. There doesn't appear to be any light in sight for the Princeton High School basketball team, which is wandering in a long tunnel of defeat. Not this week, any way.

Friday evening at 8, the little Tigers will travel to Hamilton High School for a game in what PHIS coach Larry

court is slightly larger than a match box and the lighting so notoriously poor that Ivan reported he is going to dim the lights at practice a few days before the game to get his players acclimated. "It's very tough to win there," he said.

Tuesday evening at 8, PHIS will entertain Ewing High School. The Blue Devils, along with Trenton, have made mince-meat of other schools in Mercer County this season and even if Princeton has its defense honed to its sharpest point ever, it is unlikely that it will be able to upset Silvester Cuyler and Co. Ewing's margin over PHIS in their first meeting was 51 points.

Friday's game with Bridgewater West here had a familiar ending for Ivan — too familiar. With just 64 seconds remaining, Bridgewater scored a three point play to break a tie and went on to win, 52-47. After the game, the two teams' last separate shots refused to go in. "It was a real fine game all down the line; we just couldn't pull it out," said Ivan.

It was the first time that Bridgewater had been held under 65 points all year, Ivan reported. The victors have been scoring but — like Princeton losing. Between them, the two teams had won only 6 of the 36 games they had played

The difference between a dead-end cellar and a basement-for-living

Without direct access to the out-of-doors, your basement becomes a self-contained, dead-end area, instead of a "live", low-cost space for the enjoyment of your whole family.

A BILCO Basement Door costs so little when it's included in the foundation construction. With it, you will as much as double the living space of your new home! Let us show you how easily and inexpensively you can include a BILCO Door and Stair Strugglers in your building plans.

PHS IS 2-16.
Sophomores Tony Bailey and Bill Evers led PHS with 13 points each. Leon Robinson added eight.

FINAL MATCH FRIDAY
For PHS Matmen. The possibility of a winning season appears to have slipped from the grasp of the Princeton High School wrestling team last week when it lost decisions to Delaware Valley and South Brunswick.

The Little Tigers are presently 5-6 after losing their last four. They will engage in their final match of the season Monday at 8 against a much-improved Notre Dame squad in the Irish gym. Notre Dame under its new coach is 6-1.

PHS was also scheduled to make its final home appearance of the season this Wednesday evening at 8 against powerful Hunterdon Central.

Saturday, there were two mats going at the PHS gym as the freshmen and sophomores wrestled as well as the junior varsity teams. Princeton won these events but lost the one that counted, the Valley match, to Delaware Valley, 35-10.

The home team did not win a single bout until Larry Ritchey pinned his opponent in the 148-pound class. Ritchey was due, commented his coach Tom Murray, who reported Larry had lost his last three bouts by one point.

PHS got its second five points when Lou John Rossi won by forfeit in the heavyweight class.

Tommy Evans, PHS 125-pounder, "wrestled the best mat I've ever seen him wrestle," commented Murray, but it wasn't enough to prevent him from going to a one-point loss.

Princeton's success in the freshmen and jayvee matches is a result, Murray said, of Dick Heitrick's wrestling program the latter has set up in the middle school. "He's done a real good job and it will be a big asset to us in the future," Murray said.

Earlier in the week, PHS dropped a 24-19 tangle to South Brunswick. "Two of our boys got pinned and two lost by one point. That was the match right there," said Murray.

Andy Foltmeyer and Rossi won at either end of the lineup for PHS but the big match, Murray stated, was in the 175-

NAMED GOLF COACH: Bill Ducker, Princeton's varsity and freshman golf coach since his arrival on the Princeton scene in 1967, will also coach the varsity golf team this spring.

In the latter capacity, he succeeds the late Dutch Schoch.

poner class. There, Lawrence Parker turned in one of his best performances of the year, posting an 8-0 decision over the same opponent who had pinned him last year.

NCAA WRESTLING HERE. Two-Day Regionals Set. Under a new formula for selection of entries in the annual NCAA Wrestling Championships, Princeton University will play host on March 12 and 13 to the District II University Division Tournament at Jadwin Gymnasium. Developed by the NCAA Wrestling Rules Committee, the new qualifying procedure was brought about by a desire to increase the number of wrestling and the large number of entries in the NCAA Tournament.

District II wrestling teams from University Division schools in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and West Virginia plus the U.S. Naval Academy will be eligible to participate in the two-day competition. Better than three dozen schools are expected to send representatives, perhaps 300 in all.

Preliminary bouts will start at noon on March 12 with quarter-finals that evening at 7. On Saturday, March 13, the semi-finals and consolation bouts begin at 12:20 with the finals and final consolation bouts commencing that night at 7:30. Five wrestlers in each weight class will qualify for the final 32-man bracket per weight classification in the NCAA Championships to be held at Auburn University on March 26-28.

PDS VS. RUTGERS PREP
In Non-League Contest. After a Wednesday afternoon game scheduled against Bryn Athyn, Princeton Day basketball team will meet two non-league opponents, Rutgers Prep at home Friday and Montclair away on Tuesday. The Rutgers Prep contest will begin at 3 p.m.

In their last outing, the Panthers lost pretty much as expected to Germantown Friends, 85-61, at Germantown last Tuesday. The winners shot their way to a 29-8 advantage in the first quarter and built up their lead from there. Mark Elsworth led the Blue and White with 18 points, Dave Claghorn had 12.

DEMAREST HERE FRIDAY
For PHS Hockey Game. The Princeton High School hockey team, currently 1-7-1, will return to the ice Friday at 6:15 against visiting Demarest at the Princeton Day School rink.

Wednesday afternoon at 4. In their next to last game of the season, the Little Tigers will oppose the PDS jayvee team.

Last week, the Wissahickon Hockey Club arrived late for its game here with PHS and as a result the two played only two periods. Wissahickon won, 5-2.

"We got to 3-2 at one point but that's as close as we could come," said PHS coach Eugene Doherty. Steve Sanford and John Weber, the PHS co-captains, have led the team offensively all year, accounted for the Little Tigers' scoring.

lains who have led the team offensively all year, accounted for the Little Tigers' scoring.

HUN NEARS END
Of Poor Court Season. The Hun School, which lost six weeks on the court to Peddie and Perkomien, is rapidly closing in on the end of a poor basketball season.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30, Hun will entertain Academy of New Church and on Wednesday at 3:30 will be at Pennington School. After that, only the season finale with George Schol here remains. All three games are Penn Jersey league contests.

In Hightstown Friday against Peddie, which like Hun, is having its troubles this season, Hun was victim of a 32-point performance by Peddie's Mitch Corbett. Hun trailed in every period, losing its 11th in 13th starts, 80-61, the tie is 6-9.

Co-captain Lee Van Horn had one of his best offensive games of the season for Hun, leading the Red and Black with 13 points. John Hiltman contributed 10 and Dirk Whitehead, nine. The game marked the return of Rick Ziegler to the Hun lineup. Ziegler, out since early January with an ankle injury, scored four points.

OF Women's Squash Championships. Mrs. W. Pepper Constable and Mrs. Jerome P. Webster Jr. of Princeton are co-chairmen of the 39th United States Women's Singles Squash Racquets Championships that will be held February 26-28 at Princeton University's Jadwin Gymnasium.

It is the first time the championship has been held in New Jersey and the first time the gym has been used for a women's event. Thirty-two entries are expected from the U.S. and Canada in the singles event; the consolation tournament and invitation doubles will run concurrently with the championship.

Play will begin each day at 10 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m. at the annual meet of the United States Women's Squash Racquets Association will be held at the Nassau Club, Saturday evening. The players and their hosts will be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Frothingham, Elm Lane.

On Sunday, the consolation final will be played at 10, followed by the championship final at 11 and the doubles final at 12. Charles W. Ufford, six-time New York champion, will serve as referee. R. Indoor Tennis in Jodwin This Weekend

For the second winter in a row, Jadwin Gymnasium will play host to the Intercollegiate Invitational Indoor Tennis Tournament, involving schools from the entire Atlantic seaboard. Scheduled for three days — February 19 through February 21 — the tourney will be played at Jadwin's ten indoor courts beginning at 9:30 a.m. on Friday.

Last year's tournament attracted entries from 11 colleges and invitations have been extended this year to 14 additional schools. Limited to 32 players, two from each school will compete in both singles and doubles. The tournament is independently sponsored and will be staged under the direction of Princeton's veteran tennis coach, John J. Corroy.

Invited to participate in the 1971 competition are Amherst, Brown, Bucknell, Clemson, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Fairleigh Dickinson, Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Harvard, Maryland, M.I.T., Miami, Navy, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Princeton, South Carolina, Virginia, William & Mary and Yale.

Play will begin Friday morning at 9:30 with two rounds of singles to be followed by one round of doubles. Saturday's schedule will be the same as that on Friday and the finals in both singles and doubles will be staged Sunday beginning at 1 p.m. Bill Colson of Princeton is the defending singles champion.

Stan Tatum, Mike Koplin, Bill Davall, Harold Davall and Bill Whittle, Mount, Tatum and Koplin all had 199.

Jamie Petrone was high in the Blue Angels H.V. League, rolled 155 162 — 481. Hitting 64 pins over her average, Marilyn Wilson finished a 200 in the Business Women's League. Carol Lisi had 194 and Judy Galenti, 188 173. Alice Frazetta, Laura Bell and Mary Bortone rolled 172, 171, 170 respectively.

Other members on the tournament committee include Mrs. Hallett Johnson Jr., Mrs. Sandra Maxwell, Mrs. Leland L. Mayor, Mrs. Stanley C. Smyer and Mrs. Col.

BOWLING NOTES

McHugh, Petrella Roll 254. Larry McHugh and Albert Petrella each rolled a fine 251 game last week at the Princeton Recreation Lanes.

Petrella, who bowls for Italian American Sportsmen Club in the Nassau League, added 176-201 for a 631 series. Ed Duncan and Frank Delnese rolled 225 and 222. Others in the league: Burt Davis, 218; Pross Aeschbacher, 217; Dick Traeger, 206; and Scott Blomley and Pat Migliaccio, each 200. McHugh rolls for Rialto Barber Shop in the A League.

Whitcomb Hun of Lavar Hardware had 230 and Sherwin Williams' Frank Delnese, 222. Bo Brown and 203 were Joe Prossacum, Joe Ruberto, Buck Cupples, Joe Meyer, Al Carton and Tony Amalfitano.

John Wills with 221 and Wal Brown with 208 were the only ones to better 200 in the Tri County Firemen's League. Wills rolls for Plainsboro. Brown for Princeton Junction. In the 190s were Dick Traeger, Robert Bjelke, Ray Mount, Art Stout, George Luck

NEW DIVISION FORMED

By Response Analysis, Response Analysis has formed a new division, Response Data, to carry out nationwide personal and telephone interview surveys for business, governmental and non-profit organizations.

A new national probability sample based on 1970 Census data was designed by Reuben Cohen, the firm's president, to accurately represent the total U.S. population for Response Data studies. Experienced interviewers personally trained by Response Analysis personnel will collect data from specific geographic households and people statistically selected by Response Data.

"We are already using Response Data for three major nationwide studies," said Mr. Cohen. One of these studies involves 9,000 telephone interviews and evaluates a new television series.

Another study of public reading behavior calls for 5,000 face to face interviews; the third requires personal interviews in homes with over 2,000 adults and young people to assess the public communication program of a major industry.

News Of The CHURCHES

LENTEN SERVICES BEGIN

On Ash Wednesday, Ash Wednesday services in the various churches will usher in the Lenten season, which closes on Easter, April 9.

The Princeton Pastors' Association will again sponsor Thursday services, 8:30-9:30 p.m., in First Presbyterian Church, beginning next Thursday, and continuing through Holy Week. Litchman will be served from 12:30 until 1, and child care is provided.

On Tuesdays during Lent, there will be celebration of the Eucharist in Trinity Episcopal Church at 12:10 p.m., also by a Holy Week, Litchman will be served from 12:30 until 1, and child care is provided.

On Ash Wednesday, a community service of choral evensong and eucharist will be sung by Trinity's 50 voice choir of men and boys at 8 p.m. Drawing on historical liturgical and musical resources, the economical service will include the Alleluia setting of Psalm 51, sung each Ash Wednesday in the St. John's Cathedral, Princeton.

Byrd, Purcell and Farrant will also be included.

The Rev. Canon James R. Whitmore, rector of Trinity, will lead the service; James Litton, organist and choirman will conduct the choir. This is the first of four musical services and concerts planned by the Trinity church committee, chaired by Dr. Lee H. Bristol Jr.

Experiment. The Rev. Dr. Herbert Anderson will conduct an experimental service on Ash Wednesday in the pastorate area of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 37 Nassau Place, Princeton Junction. Scheduled 8 p.m., the service includes communion.

Hopewell Council of Churches is sponsoring an Ash Wednesday Communion Service at 8 p.m. in the Methodist Church, with the Rev. Douglass Kasper as presider and the Rev. Dr. Bruce Pullen as worship leader.

St. Alphonsus Catholic Church, in Hopewell will include distribution of ashes after the masses at 7:30, 9 and 11 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. for the school children, as well as for evening mass at 7:30. During the holy season, mass will be celebrated at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and there will be Stations of the Cross on Fridays at 7:30 p.m.

ELDER SPEEDY TO SPEAK

On Boy Scout Sunday, Gerald A. Speedy, director of program development for the Boy Scouts of America and an elder of First Presbyterian Church, will speak at 9 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. services this Sunday in observance of Boy Scout Sunday. He is serving in the role of "Youth 1971" in the "Age of Hope."

Mr. Speedy became a member of the national staff of the Boy Scouts in 1910. In his current position, he meets with the Scout groups in the country. He is a member of the

Seminary Repudiates Cross-Burning

The General Faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary issued a statement this week expressing "revulsion and disgust" at the cross burning on February 6 at the War Memorial, Mercer and Nassau Streets.

"The perpetrators of this desecration and their motives are not known at this time, but even if the act was a prank, it is a symbol which has come from the community of Princeton the strongest possible protest."

"The cross, sign of the reconciling death of our Lord Jesus Christ, has been misused for years by the Ku Klux Klan in its efforts to terrorize the black citizens of our country. It will be naturally understood here also as an effort to intimidate our Black fellow Princetonians."

"We repudiate all that is associated with the burning cross and pledge ourselves to combat in every way the spirit that makes this act possible here."

1963 and was elected president ten years later. During his trusteeship, Princeton Hospital has grown from a small community hospital to a complex comprehensive health care center of 240 beds plus a 90-bed separate extended care center. It also has a Home Care Program and a Community Health Services Department, that provides visiting nurse and other public nursing personnel for the area.

Ten years ago, Mr. Conover gave the address to the first 10 students graduated from the Hospital's School of Practical Nursing. On Tuesday, he is a speaker at the 20th and 21st classes at a joint commencement.

ANNUAL AUCTION SET

For Feb. 27 by Smith Club. The 23rd annual auction of the Princeton Area Smith College Club will be held at the Littlebrook School, Magnolia Lane, on Saturday, February 27. Auctioneers, will hang the first gavel in the school gymnasium at 9:30 a.m. and continue throughout the day.

Since the auction was inaugurated in 1941, $54,995.91 has been raised for scholarships by the club, whose members are drawn from almost 250 Smith College alumnae living in Princeton, Lawrenceville, Trenton, Pennington, Hopewell and Yardley. P. Awards have been made to more than 17 girls in the Central New Jersey area—in several cases providing full tuition for four years. The present recipient is Gloria Eng of Hightstown.

Club members have again proved that one woman's wit is worth two men's. A collection of 1963 new, valuable items, ready assembled including two wooden pianofortes, an art nouveau brass vase, an oval cycle, framed pictures, a wood framed mirror and several other glass pieces.

Mrs. A. J. van den Blik is transportation chairman for donations. Those wishing to make a tax deductible donation should call Mrs. van den Blik at 924-1618.

As the auction goods are delivered at the Littlebrook School, a committee headed by Mrs. Glen H. Miller, Jr. will arrange them to best advantage, items too small for auction, including many brand new toys, donated by Princeton area merchants, will be on sale at the small girls table. Mrs. Charles W. Gregory is in charge of the children's section and Mrs. Thomas B. Hartmann of the adult. Mrs. Leslie L. Vivian Jr. is in charge of sure solicitation and Mrs. David B. Man is handling the distribution of posters.

When the sale begins on February 27, a committee of auctioneers, headed by Mrs. L. R. Goodyear, will display the lots and deliver them to successful bidders. Mrs. Jack Joyce has arranged for a musician to entertain children and there will be free baby sitters as well. The high point of the afternoon will occur when some lucky person makes the final choice between two vacation or two worth $500 or a color TV. Mrs. David Carter and Mrs. John R. Williams are in charge of this event.

MARK 30TH ANNIVERSARY

On Valentine's Day, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nini of 11 Monroe Road observed their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday.

They have been Princeton residents since leaving Petticoat Lane, Italy, in 1927. Before his retirement in 1962, Mr. Nini was employed for 24 years at Princeton University, and for 15 years at Princeton Country Day School.

Max was celebrated in St. Paul's church by a nephew, the Rev. Joseph Proccacini.

AUCTION PLANNERS:

The annual Smith College Club auction will be held Saturday, February 27, at the Littlebrook School. Making arrangements for the occasion are Mrs. Lucius W. Murling, 363, Mrs. Leslie L. Vivian, Jr., Mrs. Thomas L. Matthews and Mrs. L. R. Goodyear.

Assisted by Currado Ciccione, a son-in-law, Lectors were Jane and Anthony Nini, grand children of the jubiliaries, Mrs. Victor Proccacini, Mrs. Nini's sister and her husband, also took part. Mrs. Robert Pries of Edison was soloist and Mrs. Ann Tozzo was organist.

In the sanctuary with Mr. and Mrs. Nini were their children and great grandchildren, who participated in the offering procession.

A dinner for the Nini's, relatives and friends was given in the Annex Restaurant, held by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Ciccone, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony D. Nini and Mr. and Mrs. Mario P. Nini.

SINGLES INVITE OTHERS

To Join Twin Rivers Group. A second year is being planned for next month by the newly formed Twin Rivers Singles. The first one, held at Shure's Deli in Hightstown, attracted 130 men and women. Singles interested in joining the group for this dance, or for any of its other activities, should write Twin River Singles, P. O. Box 59, Hightstown, N.J.

POST TO HONOR POLICE

Community Service. American Legion Post 76 will present community service of donations to outstanding members of the Princeton Township and West Windsor police forces at an open meeting on Wednesday, February 24, at the Legion Hall, Washington Road.

PDS TO SEEK REVENGE

Against Lawrenceville Set. A double overtime loss is hard to swallow at any time, but it was doubly hard for the Princeton Day hockey team to lose that way to an arch rival Lawrenceville. This Friday at 3:30 p.m. at their own rink, the Panthers will be out to avenge the 3-2 defeat in January.

The Blue and White will have to come a long way back to turn the trick, after suffering a 9-0 whipping at the hands of a powerful Kent team last Friday. On the first leg of its New England swing, PDS proved no match for a big and smooth skating Kent sextet.

The winners began slowly with just one goal in the first period, but then added four in both the second and the third. The PDS attack was limited to a very few good shots on the Kent goalie.

Saturday's contest with South Kent was rained out. Earlier last week, the Panthers had another ho-hum affair against the South Orange Canadians, winning 9-0. The visitors were hampered in their play, missing both their coach and one or more of their key players.

The PDS Invitational Tournament will begin Friday, February 26. The Hershey Bears will join Lawrenceville, Hill and the host Panthers in the two day event.

PDS FIVE DROPS NO. 17
To Steiner, 46-32: Princeton High School lost its 17th basketball game of the season Tuesday to Steiner, 46-32, at the Spartans' Nat'l Pal-mer became the 14th player in Mercer County to score more than 1,000 career points. Palmer produced more than half of his team's output, hitting for 25.

In a sense, fans were treated to watching a fine player near the end of his high school career and see another one beginning. Tony Bailey, PDS sophomore who has earned a starting role for the Little Tigers, pumped in 19 and will unquestionably play a big part in coach Larry Ivan's plans next year. Bill Evers was second in scoring for the tigers with six.

Steiner enjoyed a 14-6 margin at the foot line over PIS — Palmer converting 11 of 12 — and outbounced the Little Tigers, 38-14. For Steiner (11-6) it was its fourth in a row; PIS is 2-17.

HUN TRIUMPHS, 48-39

Over Solebury. Lee Van Hara, Dirk Whitehead and John Hillman combined for 36 points to lead Hun Tuesday to a 48-39 victory over Solebury.

Van Hara had 16 and Whitehead 12 as Hun led throughout to snap a four-game losing streak. The win was Hun's fifth; it was Solebury's 11th defeat.

FRIDAY IS DEADLINE

been advanced to March 1, 2 and 3 this year. The hours are 9 to 11 at the elementary schools.

Children who will be five on or before November 30 are eligible. Parents are asked to bring the child's birth certificate and medical records—including proof of smallpox vaccination, DPT and polio immunizations—at the time of registration.

The schools are Johnson Park, Miss S. Jenkins, acting principal; John Witherspoon, Dr. L. Wesley Johnson, principal; Littlebrook, Lloyd Taylor, principal, and Riverside, Mrs. Edith Francis, principal.

EXHIBIT ITEMS WANTED
For Crafts Show. The Peace Gallery at the Fund for Peace Education, 163 Nassau Street, is soliciting entries for its "Crafts in the Community" show, scheduled for March 7.

The gallery is interested in a wide variety of handmade items, including jewelry, small furniture, weaving, leather goods, knitted or embroidered ware. Entries may be submitted through February 22 from 4 to 5 p.m. for consideration by the selection committee. The Fund for Peace Education is a gallery devoted to promoting peace and domestic reform.

PORCELAIN ON DISPLAY
At Bainbridge House. The Historical Society's new exhibit, "Trenton Porcelain," can be seen at Bainbridge House for the next few months. The display represents examples of fine quality porcelain which was made in Trenton by various firms at the turn of the century and in some cases is still being made today. Firms represented include: Ott and Brewer, Greenwood Pottery Co., Ceramic Art Company, Willets Manufacturing, M. Willets Manufacturing, American Art China Co., Perle Inc., Lenox, Edward M. Boehm and Mad-dock Pottery Co.

The show's loan was arranged by James Mitchell, curator of the Trenton State Museum. The exhibit is open to the public from 10 to 3 Monday through Friday, 1 to 3 Saturday and 2 to 4 Sunday. Arrangements can be made for group visits by calling the Historical Society.

Obituaries

Timothy N. Pfeiffer, 84, died February 12 at his home, 30 A Castle Howard Court. He was a retired attorney with Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCloy, New York, and was former president of the New York Legal Aid Society.

Mr. Pfeiffer headed the Legal Aid Society from 1950 to 1955. He also served as president of the National Probation and Parole Association from 1937 to 1941, and was a former vice-president of the New York City Bar Association.

He was a former charter trustee of Princeton University, serving from 1952 to 1957; a former trustee of the Columbia University Teachers' College and a past vice-president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

Born in Camden on November 3, 1886, Mr. Pfeiffer attended William Penn Charter School, Philadelphia, and was graduated from Princeton in 1908. He received his law degree from Harvard in 1912.

Admitted to the New York Bar in 1912, he practiced law in New York City, where he lived for many years, serving successively as deputy assistant district attorney for New York County, and as special deputy attorney general (New York). He was a member of the Milbank, Tweed firm since the 1920's.

Mr. Pfeiffer's many professional activities included the American Bar Assn., American Law Institute, N.Y. Bar Assn., National Health Council (which he served as treasurer from 1937 to 1948), the Youth House (vice-president and director 1944-55), and the New York City Mission Society.

He was an organizer, in 1917, of the Voluntary Defenders Committee for Criminal Courts; in 1936-57 he was chief counsel for the New York State Temporary Commission on Courts, and in the early 1940's was vice-chairman of the New York State Temporary Commission on Revision of Penal Law. During World War I, he served as a captain with the Sanitary Corps.

Widower of the late Eleanor W. Pfeiffer, he is survived by two sons, Eberhart of Missouri, Mont., and Timothy of Providence, R.I.; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine Gerkin of Ithaca, N.Y., and Eileen Lawrence of Burtonsville, Md., and several grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Princeton University Chapel, conducted by Dean Ernest Gordon. Funeral arrangements were made by the Mather Funeral Home.

Mrs. Eleanor W. Truitt, 63, of 29 Clay Street, died February 9 in Princeton Hospital. She was the wife of Leroy Truitt.

A native of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Truitt lived in Princeton for 30 years. She was retired from the food service department at Princeton University.

Also surviving is a son, Leroy of Princeton. The service was held in the Hughes Funeral Home, Trenton, the Rev. Edward Smith of First Baptist Church officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Helen Krieg, 90, of Main Street, Kingston, died February 13 in Princeton Hospital. She was the widow of Paul E. Krieg.

Born in Germantown, Mrs. Krieg lived in Kingston for 50 years.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Helen Kinsie of Kingston, Mrs. Elizabeth Keesee of Somerville and Mrs. Freida Carato of Belle Mead; two sons, Herman L. and Richard T. Truitt, one grandchild and nine great grand children.

The service was held in the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. James L. Meecham of Kingston Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in Kingston Cemetery. Memorial gifts may be sent to the church.

Mrs. Almee V. Bahr, 75, of 204 Paxton Street, Lexington, Va., formerly of Princeton, died February 15 in Stonewall Jackson Hospital, Lexington. She was the widow of John F. Bahr Sr., who died in 1957.

Mrs. Bahr, born in Greenoble, France, formerly lived at 22 Snowden Lane.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Harold S. Head of Lexington, and a son, John F. Bahr Jr., of Columbus, O.

Requiem mass will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in St. Paul's Catholic Church. Interment will be in the parish cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial gifts may be made to the church or to the Heart Fund.

Council.

The award was presented at the annual fund raising dinner of the Fund. Money raised by the event is used to provide scholarships to black residents of Princeton who wish to continue their education beyond high school.

It was also announced at the dinner that the Princeton Jaycees will contribute to the Fund a portion of the money raised in the 1970 Jaycee Football Classic.

ALUMNI DAY SATURDAY

1,000 Expected at University. A thousand alumni and their wives are expected to return to the Princeton University campus Saturday for partake in the annual Alumni Day program.

A series of five morning panels will inaugurate the day-long activities. Alumni will hear faculty, students and administrators discuss a range of topics — from current financial pressures to the role of athletic coaches to the changing undergraduate life. Dr. Willard Darylmyre, Director of University Health Services, will lead a panel on "Drugs and the College Scene." Dr. Arthur S. Link, Director of the Papers of Woodrow Wilson, will speak on Wilson's role in the creation of the modern Princeton.

Also on the day's agenda is a business meeting of the Alumni Association, awarding of several prizes, a Service of Remembrance, a variety of sports events, exhibitions, and an afternoon debate on the subject: "Should Vice President Agnew be censured for his speeches in the 1970 Congressional campaign?"

A noon luncheon at Dillon Gymnasium will be preceded by a concert by the Princeton University Band. Dr. Bruce Merrifield, 42, of Buffalo, N.Y., President of Princeton's Alumni Association, will preside at the business meeting. The featured speaker at the luncheon will be Dr. Aaron Lomnick, Dean of the Graduate School, Professor of Physics, and a perceptive commentator on the current University scene.

REAL ESTATE

OUR BUSINESS IS PROPERTY

WE REALLY SPECIALIZE IN PEOPLE.

It's the people who matter most of all. For example, we have an elder couple looking for the kind of house in Princeton where they can retire and have a pretty garden;

a mature family who know Princeton and are most anxious to find a traditional colonial (preferably older) right in town;

a young couple who are ready for their first house and want something really interesting but reasonable.

Because we feel that people like these, who have individual needs and desire, deserve the best

The many fine specimen trees and shrubs on this 150' x 190' lot enhance the beauty of this fine Ranch. It has an entry hall, large living room and dining area with French doors to patio, kitchen with breakfast area, master bedroom and a dressing room, (or dressing room could be a bedroom), 2 other bedrooms, and 2½ baths. Dark room and storage area. $36,500

With the very few homes being built in Princeton Township, this one is really a good buy. There is a spacious foyer, living room with fireplace, formal dining room, paneled family room, lovely kitchen with breakfast area, laundry room, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, basement and 2-car garage. $58,500

190 + year old 2 story surrounded by large trees and located in a lovely neighborhood by community. Offering living room with fireplace, separate dining room, new modern kitchen, powder room, 4 bedrooms, both finished basement and oversized garage. $39,500

English Tudor home well maintained in tip-top condition and surrounded by beautiful trees. It features a sunken living room with a fireplace, dining room, paneled den with fireplace, kitchen with breakfast nook. Four bedrooms, 2½ baths, and garage. $63,000

Attractive raised Ranch on a 1-acre lot in nearby community. It offers entrance foyer, living room, dining, old, modern kitchen, 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths on upper level. Family room with sliding doors, study or 4th bedroom, laundry room and powder room at lower level. Two-car garage. $13,500

New ranch in convenient location on a wooded lot in Princeton Township. Entry foyer, living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen, family room, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths. Basement and 2-car garage. $65,000

Secluded but not isolated with lots of trees, even a stream. A beautiful white Split-Level on a quiet cul-de-sac. Entrance foyer, family room with French doors opening onto a large redwood arched flagstone screened in porch, living room with fireplace, dining, old, eat-in kitchen, 3 bedrooms plus den or 4th bedroom, 2 full baths, basement and oversized 2-car garage. Convenient to shopping, schools, and commuting. In move-in condition. Listed for the first time at $13,900

Large new Colonial on a beautiful 1½ acre wooded lot. It has an entrance foyer, spacious living room, separate formal dining room, paneled family room with brick fireplace, large kitchen with breakfast area, laundry-mud room, and a sixth bedroom or den. Full bath, 5 bedrooms, 2½ baths. Large basement with sliding doors on ground level. Attached 2-car garage. $89,500

If this large distinctive home were located on more than its two acres, it could easily be considered in the league of miniature estates. There are many rooms, all in good size and taste. There are three fireplaces, one in the master bedroom — two powder rooms on the first floor — a front and a back stairway — library — large family room — maid's room and bath — ultra-modern kitchen with beautiful cabinets and carpeted — full basement — 3-car garage. Just perfect for the large family. Located in western Princeton. $110,000

A large new Dutch Colonial near the station, schools, and shopping. First floor has entry foyer, living room with fireplace, dining room, family room, kitchen and breakfast area, powder room and laundry area. Upstairs there is a large master bedroom with full bath, dressing area, walk-in closet and a double closet. Three other bedrooms and half bath. Full basement, attached 2-car garage. $14,759

The box type Colonial with a stable roof has many advantages. The four bedrooms in this Colonial are all corner bedrooms offering cross ventilation. There are double closets in the entry foyer, large living room with fireplace, formal dining room, paneled family room, study, good sized kitchen with duette, 2½ baths, basement and 2-car garage. In Princeton Junction. $45,250

Beautiful new well constructed home on a 2-acre wooded lot in Princeton Township. Entrance foyer with slide floor, built-in bar, powder room, paneled den, living room with fireplace, formal dining room, paneled family room with fireplace, spacious kitchen with self-heating oven and laundry room. Second floor has five bedrooms and three full baths. Large basement, 2-car garage, and dual heating system. $125,000
